Overview

Deems that the trafficking of fentanyl across Arizona's border is a public health crisis and directs the Arizona Department of Health Services (DHS) to do everything within its power to address the crisis.

History

DHS aims to promote, protect and improve the health and wellness of individuals and communities in Arizona. The agency strives to set the standard for personal and community health through direct care, science, public policy and leadership. DHS operates programs from the following areas: 1) disease prevention and control; 2) health promotion; 3) community public health; 4) environmental health; 5) maternal and child health; 6) emergency preparedness; and 7) regulation of healthcare intuitions and facilities.

The Center for Disease Control (CDC) describes fentanyl as a synthetic opioid that is 50 to 100 times stronger than morphine. The number of overdose deaths involving synthetic opioids in 2020 was more than 18 times the number in 2013 with more than 56,000 people dying synthetic opioid overdoses in 2020. Fentanyl is listed as a narcotic drug in statute (A.R.S. § 13-3401).

Article I, Section 10 of the U.S. Constitution states that no state can, without the consent of Congress, lay any Duty of Tonnage, keep troops or ships of war in times of peace, enter into any agreement or compact with another state or with a foreign power or engage in war, unless actually invaded or in such imminent danger as will not admit of delay.

Article IV, Section 4 of the U.S. Constitution states that the U.S. must guarantee to every state a Republican form of government and protect each of them against invasion and on application of the Legislature or of the Executive (when the Legislature cannot be convened) against domestic violence.

Article II, Section 3 of Arizona's Constitution permits the state to protect the people's freedom and preserve the checks and balances of the U.S. Constitution by exercising its sovereign authority to restrict the actions of its personnel and use of its financial resources to purposes consistent with the U.S. Constitution by passing an initiative or referendum, a bill or any other available legal remedy.
