Summary of Legislation

The bill makes changes regarding late fees charged by landlords and court procedures for forcible entry and detainer cases as described below.

Late fees. The bill establishes rules regarding late fees charged to tenants or mobile home owners by landlords. The bill:

- limits the amount a landlord may charge;
- establishes a grace period for late rent payments;
- prohibits a landlord from initiating eviction procedures on the sole basis of failure to pay late fees;
- exempts the portion of rent paid by a rent subsidy provider from late fees; and
- requires that any late fees be disclosed in the rental agreement.

The bill also limits how late fees may be recouped. Late fees cannot be recouped from rent payments, they cannot accrue interest, and no more than one late fee may be applied to an overdue payment of rent unless the total of the fees is within the legal limit.

A landlord who violates any of these rules is responsible for paying a penalty to the tenant and curing the violation within seven days of being notified of the violation. If any such violation is not cured, the tenant or home owner is entitled to take civil action against the landlord, and the Attorney General may investigate and prosecute the violation. A violation that is not cured in time or that was committed by a landlord in bad faith is an unfair or deceptive trade practice for the purposes of the "Colorado Consumer Protection Act".

Court procedures. In current law, a defendant to a forcible entry and detainer action is required to appear in court at a time between 7 and 14 days from the issuance of a summons. The bill specifies what the summons must contain, including a list of available resources for obtaining legal aid and rental assistance, as provided by the Department of Local Affairs (DOLA). The bill also forbids the court from entering a default judgment for possession before the close of business on the date when the appearance is due.

The bill repeals the requirement that a tenant deposit with the court the amount of rent due in an appeal, and it permits the tenant to fulfill a notice of nonpayment until a judge issues a judgment for possession and directs the court to vacate the judgment and dismiss the action with prejudice in such a case. The bill also repeals the bond requirement for the warranty of habitability and allows the tenant to assert an alleged breach of the warranty of habitability as an affirmative defense. If a tenant prevails in a judgment of breach of warranty of habitability, the court determines a reduced rental value and denies possession to the landlord, pending the tenant's payment of rent due at the reduced rate, which the bill permits to be paid to the court or to the landlord.

The bill prohibits written rental agreements from assigning a cost to a party stemming from an eviction notice or eviction action from a violation of the rental agreement, and it requires that any fee-shifting clause award attorney fees and court costs to the prevailing party.

State Expenditures

For FY 2021-22, the bill increases state expenditures and workload in several state agencies. It increases state expenditures by $26,711 and 0.3 FTE in FY 2021-22 and $29,456 and 0.4 FTE in FY 2022-23, as summarized in Table 2 and described below.

Table 2
Expenditures Under SB 21-173

	FY 2021-22	FY 2022-23
Judicial Department
Personal Services	$14,388	$21,583
Operating Expenses	$351	$790
Capital Outlay Costs	$6,600	-
Centrally Appropriated Costs ¹	$5,372	$7,083
Total Cost	$26,711	$29,456
Total FTE	0.3 FTE	0.4 FTE

¹ Centrally appropriated costs are not included in the bill's appropriation.

Judicial Department. Workload will increase in the trial courts to review cases and process payments where the bill allows payments to be made to the court rather than to a landlord. Based on recent caseload history, this amounts to 0.3 FTE in FY 2021-22, and 0.4 FTE in subsequent years.

Additional workload is required due to updating forms, increased clerk review, and additional court filings due to the broadened definition of unfair and deceptive trade practices; this workload can be accomplished within existing appropriations.

The bill prohibits landlords from initiating eviction procedures based solely on the basis of late fees, which could cause fewer forced entry and detainer cases from being filed, reducing workload in the Judicial Department. The bill also prohibits certain landlord behavior, which could cause additional civil claims to be filed, increasing workload. In either case, as the change in the number of cases is expected to be minimal, any change in workload is absorbable within existing appropriations.

Department of Local Affairs. Workload will increase in DOLA to maintain a list of civil legal aid and rental assistance resources to be included in a court summons. This can be accomplished within existing appropriations.

Department of Personnel and Administration. This bill may increase the number of cases brought before the Office of Administrative Courts. A small increase in caseload is absorbable within existing appropriations. Should the increase in caseload be larger, the impact will be addressed through the annual budget process.

Department of Law. Workload in the Attorney General's office may increase to the extent that additional deceptive trade practice complaints are filed. The office will review complaints within the normal course of business. The number of new cases is expected to be small and any increase in workload does not require additional appropriations.

Centrally appropriated costs. Pursuant to a Joint Budget Committee policy, certain costs associated with this bill are addressed through the annual budget process and centrally appropriated in the Long Bill or supplemental appropriations bills, rather than in this bill. These costs, which include employee insurance and supplemental employee retirement payments, are estimated to be $5,372 in FY 2021-22 and $7,083 in FY 2022-23.

Effective Date

The bill takes effect 90 days following adjournment of the General Assembly sine die, assuming no referendum petition is filed.

State Appropriations

For FY 2021-22, the bill requires a General Fund appropriation of $21,339 Judicial Department, and 0.3 FTE.
