performing arts standards will be a condition of high school graduation from the public schools of the state beginning with the ninth-grade class of 2010-11.

Under current law, the state board of education must adopt rules describing the minimum contents of each student's individual career and academic plan. Section 3 of the bill requires each plan to include the student's progress in visual arts and performing arts classes.

Sections 4-8 of the bill amend several provisions of the "Preschool to Postsecondary Education Alignment Act" to specifically incorporate visual arts and performing arts education into the standards, assessments, and postsecondary and workforce readiness program that the state board of education and local education providers adopt.

Sections 9-13 of the bill recognize the importance of visual arts and performing arts education in preventing student dropouts and in helping local education providers re-engage students in school. Under current law, the office of dropout prevention and student re-engagement, in the department of education, collaborates with several community organizations. The bill includes private nonprofit or for-profit community arts organizations in the list of collaborative agencies. Certain local education providers are currently required to assess their practices related to student dropouts and re-engagement. The bill includes policies and practices related to visual arts and performing arts education in the assessment. Those local education providers that adopt student graduation and completion plans are encouraged to include increased availability of visual arts and performing arts education in those plans. The bill also specifies visual arts and performing arts education as education services for which a local education provider may seek grant moneys under the student re-engagement grant program.

Sections 14 and 15 of the bill conform the definition of arts-based activity in the dropout prevention activity grant program with the definitions of visual arts and performing arts created in the bill.

Section 16 of the bill clarifies that career and technical education for which a school district, board of cooperative services, or charter school may receive funding includes visual arts and performing arts education.

1 Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Colorado:

2 SECTION 1. Legislative declaration. (1) The general assembly
3 hereby finds that:

4 (a) Recent studies have shown that education in visual arts and
5 performing arts has positive effects on children's behavior, attitudes, and

1 academic performance and on career and workforce readiness;

2 (b) The opportunity to study and build skills in the visual arts and
3 performing arts increases students' self-confidence, nurtures students'
4 creativity and curiosity, provides on-going challenges for students, helps
5 students remain engaged in school, facilitates building positive
6 relationships between students and teachers, and, as a result of these
7 effects, helps reduce the school dropout rate;

8 (c) Visual arts and performing arts education provide an 9 alternative method of reaching struggling students, including those who 10 are disadvantaged, those for whom English is a second language, and 11 students with disabilities;

12 (d) The innovation and creativity that students exercise and foster
13 in visual arts and performing arts education enables them to innovate, 14 creatively solve problems, and bring greater creativity to their thinking in 15 the more traditional education areas of reading, mathematics, and science
16 and to develop the twenty-first-century critical thinking, collaboration,
17 communication, and leadership skills that are crucial to success in today's 18 workforce;

19 (e) Because of the level of innovation and creativity demanded for 20 Colorado and the nation to stay competitive in the global economy, it is 21 crucial that each student graduate from a public high school in Colorado
22 with a solid foundation in visual arts and performing arts education that 23 will enable the student to participate fully, creatively, and successfully in 24 the state's economy and workforce.

25 (2) The general assembly finds, therefore, that requiring school
26 districts and charter schools to fully integrate visual arts and performing 27 arts education into the elementary and secondary school curriculum and

1 into the description of postsecondary and workforce readiness is
2 necessary to more fully support workforce development within the state
3 and ensure that Colorado is able to compete economically on both a
4 national and global scale.
