prior to its repeal.

The department of health care policy and financing (HCPF) shall collaborate with the department of public health and environment, and may collaborate with other public agencies or nonprofit organizations, to promote and expand provider participation. HCPF shall also collaborate with the department of education to facilitate services to at-risk teenagers and teen parents.

Program providers shall collect data relating to the effectiveness of the program and provide the data to HCPF. Providers shall survey program participants to measure participant behaviors that are consistent with reducing teen pregnancies and shall report survey results to HCPF along with the number of program participants and, to the extent determinable by the provider, the number of program participants who drop out of school, become pregnant, or impregnate another person.

The bill creates an exception to the prohibition on the use of general fund moneys to allow general fund moneys to be used for HCPF's internal administrative costs in providing expanded program promotion and oversight.

The bill repeals an obsolete reporting requirement.
