I. Summary:

The bill makes a number of changes to the law relating to Medicaid coverage for young adults who have aged out of foster care. The bill requires the Department of Children and Families (DCF) to develop a program to facilitate enrollment of young adults formerly in out-of-home care in Medicaid.

The bill authorizes the DCF to coordinate with a community-based care lead agency in implementing the program and requires specified outreach services that must be included in the program.

The bill revises eligibility for Medicaid coverage for specified young adults formerly eligible for foster care and provides for presumptive eligibility for Medicaid for certain young adults.

The bill may have an indeterminate fiscal impact on state government. See Section V. Fiscal Impact Statement.

The bill has an effective date of July 1, 2021.

II. Present Situation:

Medicaid

Medicaid, authorized in Title XIX of the Social Security Act (SSA), is a state administered federal program that jointly finances medical and related services to a diverse low-income population.¹ To be eligible for Medicaid, individuals must meet both categorical² and financial³ criteria in addition to requirements regarding residency, immigration status, and U.S. citizenship.⁴ For some eligibility groups or pathways, state coverage is mandatory, while for others it is optional. States and territories must submit a state plan to the federal government to describe how they will carry out their Medicaid programs within the federal statute's framework.⁵

As the Medicaid agency for the state, as provided under federal law, Medicaid services in Florida are administered by the Agency for Health Care Administration (AHCA). Medicaid eligibility in Florida is determined either by the Department of Children and Families (DCF) or the Social Security Administration for SSI recipients. The DCF determines Medicaid eligibility for:

- Parents and caretaker relatives of children;
- Children;
- Pregnant women;
- Former Foster Care Individuals;
- Non-citizens with medical emergencies; and
- Aged or disabled individuals not currently receiving Supplemental Security Income (SSI).⁶

Children in Out-of-Home Care

The Foster Care, Prevention, and Permanency program, authorized in Title IV-E of the SSA, is a federal-state program that, among other things, jointly finances foster care for children who a state determines cannot safely remain in their homes and who meet federal eligibility rules related to being removed from a low-income household and other factors. The program also provides some support for services to assist older children in foster care, and those who age out, in making a successful transition to adulthood. The Administration for Children and Families (ACF) at the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) administers the Title IV-E program.⁷

While in foster care, nearly all children are eligible for Medicaid under mandatory eligibility pathways. This means that states must provide coverage because these children receive assistance under the Title IV-E foster care program, are disabled, or meet other eligibility criteria. Under the Title IV-E program, states must inform foster youth within 90 days prior to emancipation about their future options for health care. Title IV-E also directs states to provide these youth with health information and official documentation that they were previously in care. Such documentation may be necessary to determine eligibility for some former foster youth who later apply for Medicaid.⁸

Current law requires the AHCA to make payments for medical assistance and related services on behalf of individuals who the department, or the Social Security Administration by contract with the DCF, determines to be eligible, subject to the income, assets, and categorical eligibility tests set forth in federal and state law. Payment on behalf of these Medicaid eligible persons is subject to the availability of moneys and any limitations established by the General Appropriations Act or ch. 216, F.S.⁹ These individuals include a child who is eligible under Title IV-E of the Social Security Act for subsidized board payments, foster care, or adoption subsidies, and a child for whom the state has assumed temporary or permanent responsibility and who does not qualify for Title IV-E assistance but is in foster care, shelter or emergency shelter care, or subsidized adoption. This category includes:¹⁰

- A young adult who is eligible to receive services under s. 409.1451, F.S., until the young adult reaches 21 years of age, without regard to any income, resource, or categorical eligibility test that is otherwise required.
- A person who as a child was eligible under Title IV-E of the Social Security Act for foster care or the state-provided foster care and who is a participant in the Road-to-Independence Program.
- A child who is eligible for the Guardianship Assistance Program as provided in s. 39.6225, F.S.

Young Adults Formerly in Out-of-Home Care

The Medicaid pathway for former foster youth is intended to provide necessary health supports in the years immediately after leaving foster care.¹¹ The Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act¹² authorizes Medicaid for an individual up to age 26 if they were in foster care and receiving Medicaid when they aged out of foster care between ages 18 and 21 in Florida. It parallels another ACA requirement that health insurance companies provide coverage of children up to age 26 under their parents' private health care plans. There is no income limit for eligibility and the young adult must not be eligible for another Medicaid coverage type. However, the individual must make application for this coverage with ACCESS Florida.¹³

Prior to reaching age 21, if the young adult has an open supervision case or upon request of a young adult, child welfare staff must:¹⁴

- Assist the young adult in applying for Medicaid under this coverage group.
- Ensure that the young adult retains continuity of medical care and has a Medicaid card.

A review of continued Medicaid eligibility is completed at least once every 12 months or sooner if the child's circumstances change. The criteria for recertification remain the same as for the initial Medicaid eligibility determination. In all cases, Medicaid for non-Title IV-E eligible children must be authorized for 12-months. All factors relating to eligibility are reevaluated at each recertification.¹⁵

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

Currently, the DCF or the community-based lead agency is required to document that young adults who were formerly in out-of-home care are enrolled in Medicaid under s. 409.903(4), F.S.¹⁶ The bill requires the DCF to develop a program to facilitate enrollment of young adults who are Medicaid eligible. The program is required to provide outreach services that include:

- Notifying eligible or prospectively eligible young adults, caregivers, group homes, and residential programs about the eligibility and options for enrollment.
- Providing technical assistance to eligible young adults in enrolling.
- Publicizing options for Medicaid enrollment for young 36 adults who have lived in foster care.

The bill amends s. 409.903(4), F.S., modifying the application of Medicaid eligibility for certain categories of eligible youth. The bill removes the eligibility provisions related to if the child was eligible to receive services under s. 409.1451, F.S., to a child who was eligible under Title IV-E of the Social Security Act for foster care or state-provided foster care and was living in licensed care in Florida on his or her 18th birthday. If a youth is covered under the new eligibility category then he or she is covered until the age of 26 years old, rather than until 21 years old as is applicable under the current eligibility provisions.

The bill also provides for presumptive eligibility for Medicaid for certain young adults as required by ACA.

The bill is effective July 1, 2021.

C. Government Sector Impact:

The bill may have an indeterminate fiscal impact on the DCF.

The ACHA states that there will likely be no operational impact, but there is potential for a minor fiscal impact on the ACHA.¹⁷ The ACHA states that former foster care youth are eligible for Medicaid coverage because coverage until age 26 is mandated by federal law, therefore the changes to 409.903, F.S., are codifying the statute to align with what is currently covered under Florida Medicaid. However, the program to assist enrollment young adults formerly in foster care to enroll in Medicaid may increase the number of Medicaid enrollees.¹⁸
