
The original instrument and the following digest, which constitutes no part of the legislative instrument, were prepared by Cheryl Horne.

DIGEST

Present law permits the court, after a contradictory hearing, to order a psychological, or psychiatric examination and evaluation of the child or other children in the household upon a showing of good cause in an affidavit executed by the applicant.

Proposed law permits the court, after a contradictory hearing, to order a second physical examination of the child or other children in the household upon a showing of good cause in an affidavit executed by the applicant.

Effective August 1, 2013.

(Adds CHC Art. 614(E))