An Act relative to strengthening the anti-slapp law.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:

1 SECTION 1. Section 59H of Chapter 231 of the General Laws, as appearing in the 2 2008 Official Edition, is hereby amended by striking the section in its entirety and inserting in 3 place there of the following new section:-

4 Section 59H. Strategic litigation against public participation; special motion to dismiss

5 The purpose of this statute is to ensure full participation by citizens and organizations in the 6 robust discussion of issues before legislative, judicial, and administrative bodies and in other 7 public fora, including the ability of citizens to bring matters of public concern to the attention of 8 legislative, judicial, and administrative bodies, which is so essential to the democratic process.

9 Because there has been a disturbing increase in lawsuits brought primarily y to chill the valid

10 exercise of constitutional rights of freedom of speech and petition for the redress of grievances, 11 this statute recognizes that such litigation is disfavored and should be resolved quickly with 12 minimum cost to citizens that have participated in matters of public concern. In furtherance of 13 this purpose, in any case in which a party asserts that the civil claims, counterclaims, or cross
14 claims against said party are based, either in whole or in part, on said party's exercise of its right
15 of petition under the constitution of the United States or of the commonwealth, said party may 16 bring a special motion to dismiss.

17 (a) The court shall advance any such special motion so that it may be heard and 18 determined as expeditiously as possible. For those claims or allegations that are based on 19 protected petitioning activity, the court shall grant such special motion, unless the party against 20 whom such special motion is made shows that: (1) the moving party's exercise of its right to 21 petition, either acting solely or in concert with other citizens, was devoid of any reasonable 22 factual support or any arguable basis in law and (2) the moving party's acts caused actual injury
23 to the responding party. In making its determination, the court shall consider the pleadings and 24 supporting and opposing affidavits stating the facts upon which the liability or defense is based.

25 (b) The attorney general, on his behalf or on behalf of any government agency 26 or subdivision to which the moving party's acts were directed, may intervene to defend or 27 otherwise support the moving party on such special motion.

28 (c) All discovery proceedings shall be stayed upon the filing of the special 29 motion under this section; provide d, however, that the court, on motion and after a hearing and 30 for good cause shown, may order that specified discovery be conducted. The stay of discovery 31 shall remain in effect until notice of entry of the order ruling on the special motion.

32 (d) Said special motion to dismiss may be filed within sixty days of the service 33 of the complaint or, in the court's discretion, at any later time upon terms it deems proper.

34 (e) If the court grants such special motion to dismiss, the court shall award the 35 moving party costs and reasonable attorney's fees, including those incurred for the special 36 motion and any related discovery matters. Nothing in this section shall affect or preclude the 37 right of the moving party to any remedy otherwise authorized by law.

38 (f) As used in this section, the words "a party's exercise of its right of petition" 39 shall mean: [1] any written or oral statement made before or submitted to a legislative, executive, 40 or judicial body, or any other governmental proceeding;

41 [2] any written or oral statement made in connection with an issue under 42 consideration or review by a legislative, executive, or judicial body, or any other governmental 43 proceeding;

44 [3] any statement reasonably likely to encourage consideration or review of 45 an issue by a legislative, executive, or judicial body or any other governmental proceeding 46 regardless of whether there has been any previous, or presently is any, ongoing governmental 47 proceeding on that issue;

48 [4] any statement reasonably likely to enlist public participation in an effort 49 to effect such consideration, including but not limited to statements made to journalists or other 50 citizens; or

51 [5] any other statement falling within constitutional protection of the right to 52 petition government.
