Senate Bill 619
Finance

(Senators Klausmeier and Feldman)

Health Maintenance Organizations - Certificate of Need Requirements -
Modification

This bill repeals the requirement that a health maintenance organization (HMO) or a health care facility that controls or is controlled by an HMO must have a certificate of need (CON) before the HMO or facility builds, develops, operates, purchases, or participates in building, developing, operating, or establishing an ambulatory surgical facility or center. The bill also alters the conditions under which an HMO or facility is required to have a CON before taking specified actions to establish any other health care project.

Fiscal Summary

State Effect: The bill is not anticipated to materially impact State operations or finances.

Local Effect: None.

Small Business Effect: None.

Analysis

Bill Summary: An HMO or a health care facility that either controls or is controlled by an HMO must have a CON before the HMO or health care facility builds, develops, operates, purchases, or participates in building, developing, operating, or establishing any other health care project for which a CON is required unless at least 90% of the patients who can reasonably be expected to receive health care services from the project will be individuals enrolled in that HMO.

Current Law: An HMO or a health care facility that either controls, directly or indirectly, or is controlled by an HMO must have a CON before the HMO or health care facility builds, develops, operates, purchases, or participates in building, developing, operating, or establishing (1) a hospital or an ambulatory surgical facility or center and (2) any other health care project for which a CON is required if that health care project is planned for or used by any nonsubscribers of that HMO.

Notwithstanding the requirement to obtain a CON before establishing a hospital or an ambulatory surgical facility or center, an HMO or a health care facility that either controls or is controlled by an HMO is not required to obtain a CON before purchasing an existing ambulatory surgical facility or center.

Background: Generally, the CON program requires review and approval of certain types of proposed health care facility and service projects by the Maryland Health Care Commission. It is intended to ensure that new health care facilities and services are developed only as needed.
