Legislative Counsel's Digest:

The Nevada Constitution and existing law provide that all persons arrested for offenses other than murder of the first degree must be admitted to bail unless certain circumstances apply. (Nev. Const. Art. 1, § 7; NRS 178.484) This bill makes various changes relating to bail.

Existing law authorizes the court in which an indictment or information is presented for a felony charge to increase a defendant's bail and order the defendant to be committed to actual custody if the defendant does not pay the increased amount. (NRS 173.175) Section 2 of this bill provides that if a court has made a determination of bail based on a criminal complaint, the State has elected to present the same case before a grand jury and an indictment has been returned, the State may not seek a modification of the original determination of bail unless: (1) before filing a motion to modify the bail, the State files notice of the intent to file a motion to modify the bail; (2) the State files a motion to modify the bail; and (3) the motion to modify the bail is based upon new or different reasons that were unknown at the time that the original determination of bail was made.

Existing law provides that before releasing a person arrested for any crime, the court may impose such reasonable conditions on the person as it deems necessary to protect the health, safety and welfare of the community and to ensure that the person will appear at all times and places ordered by the court. Existing law also sets forth a nonexclusive list of conditions of bail that the court may impose. (NRS 178.484) Section 3 of this bill provides that: (1) any person eligible for release on bail as provided in the Nevada Constitution must be released pending trial with the least restrictive conditions that the court finds necessary to ensure reasonably the appearance of the person and the safety of the community; and (2) no financial condition on the pretrial release of a defendant, no arrest warrant and no other involvement with the criminal justice system may be imposed, including, without limitation, the imposition of any fee for any condition that is associated with pretrial release, supervision or detention, other than a secured or unsecured bond imposed in accordance with section 3.

Section 3 also sets forth a priority for conditions of release, in the following order: (1) own recognizance release; (2) release with nonfinancial conditions; (3) release with an unsecured appearance bond; and (4) release with secured financial conditions, provided that such financial conditions are set no higher than necessary to ensure reasonably the appearance of the defendant and the safety of the community. Section 3 additionally provides that except for certain cases, any defendant who is charged with no offense greater than a misdemeanor must be released on his or her own recognizance and the presumption must be that no other conditions should be imposed, except that if deemed necessary, the following conditions may be imposed: (1) the requirement to commit no new crimes; (2) the requirement to provide contact information; and (3) if any alleged crime involves a specific victim who is a natural person, the requirement that the defendant will stay away from that specific victim.

Additionally, section 3 provides that a defendant who is charged with a felony other than first degree murder must be released under the least restrictive condition or combination of conditions necessary to ensure reasonably the appearance of the defendant and the safety of the community. Furthermore, section 3 requires that the court, as soon as possible but in no case more than 48 hours after the initial appearance of the defendant, must hold a pretrial release hearing to determine which conditions, if conditions are required, are the least restrictive conditions necessary to ensure reasonably the appearance of the defendant and the safety of the community. Section 3 sets forth in detail the requirements for a pretrial release hearing and the rights afforded to a defendant.

Existing law provides that a person who is arrested for certain offenses relating to driving under the influence of alcohol or a controlled substance and who is under the influence of alcohol or a controlled substance must not be admitted to bail or released on the person's own recognizance unless, for an offense involving alcohol, the person has a concentration of alcohol of less than 0.04 in his or her breath or, for an offense involving a controlled substance, 12 hours has passed since the person was arrested. (NRS 178.484) Section 3 provides that, under such circumstances, a person may be detained for up to 4 hours if there is a reasonable likelihood that, if released, the person would be a danger to himself or herself or others.

Existing law provides that if a person is arrested for a battery that constitutes domestic violence: (1) the person must not be admitted to bail sooner than 12 hours after arrest; and (2) if the person is admitted to bail more than 12 hours after arrest, without appearing personally before a magistrate or without the amount of bail having been otherwise set by a magistrate or a court, bail for the person must be a specified amount, depending on whether the person has previous convictions and whether the battery resulted in substantial bodily harm or was committed by strangulation. (NRS 178.484) Section 3 provides that, under such circumstances, a person may be detained for up to 4 hours.

Existing law provides that, under certain circumstances, a person must not be admitted to bail sooner than 12 hours after arrest if the person is arrested for violating: (1) a temporary or extended order for protection against domestic violence; (2) a restraining order or injunction that is in the nature of a temporary or extended order for protection against domestic violence; (3) a temporary or extended order for protection against stalking, aggravated stalking or harassment; or (4) a temporary or extended order for protection against sexual assault. Existing law also establishes specified amounts of monetary bail, depending on whether the person has previous convictions, if the person is released more than 12 hours after arrest. (NRS 178.484) Section 3: (1) provides that, for such arrests, a person may be detained for up to 4 hours; and (2) eliminates the specified amounts of monetary bail.

Existing law provides that if a person fails to comply with a condition of bail, the court may, after providing the person with reasonable notice and an opportunity for a hearing, deem such conduct a contempt or increase the amount of bail. (NRS 178.484) Section 3: (1) provides that the court must have attempted unsuccessfully to contact the person; and (2) instead of authorizing the court to increase the amount of bail, authorizes the court to order that the pretrial release hearing be reopened.

Existing law provides that if a person admitted to bail fails to appear as ordered by a court and the jurisdiction incurs any cost in returning the person to the jurisdiction to stand trial, the person who failed to appear is responsible for paying those costs as restitution. (NRS 178.484) Section 3 deletes this provision.

Existing law sets forth certain factors the court must consider in deciding whether there is good cause to release a person without bail. (NRS 178.4851) Section 15 of this bill repeals this provision of existing law.

Existing law provides that when a defendant charged with the commission of a category A or B felony who is admitted to bail on a surety bond and who is taken into custody in the same jurisdiction, is charged with another category A or B felony and ordered to be released from custody without bail, the defendant must not be released until the bail agent that issued the surety bond is notified. (NRS 178.4855) Section 4 of this bill provides that, under such circumstances, the defendant must receive a new pretrial release hearing, which may result in the addition or modification of conditions of release.

Existing law provides that if a defendant released on bail has committed a felony during the period of release, the defendant's bail may be revoked following a hearing. Pending the hearing, the defendant may be held without bail on the new felony charge. (NRS 178.487) Section 5 of this bill provides that under such circumstances: (1) the defendant may not be held for more than 4 hours, at which point a pretrial release hearing must be held; and (2) if a pretrial release hearing is not held within 4 hours after the defendant is being held, the defendant must be released until the pretrial release hearing is held.

Existing law authorizes a magistrate to require a material witness to give bail to ensure the person's appearance as a witness. (NRS 178.494) Section 6 of this bill provides that: (1) the magistrate may impose conditions of bail under such circumstances; and (2) if a material witness who fails to comply with a condition of bail is also an alleged victim and is refusing to be interviewed or deposed, the State may not seek a warrant for detention of the person unless the State does so pursuant to a court order and in compliance with all applicable constitutional rights conferred upon the person.

Existing law sets forth factors a magistrate must consider in setting the amount of bail. (NRS 178.498) Section 7 of this bill provides that: (1) a magistrate may only impose monetary bail or a secured bond if no nonmonetary conditions will ensure reasonably the appearance of a person and the safety of the community; (2) the amount of the monetary bail or secured bond must be based on the financial resources of the person and must be the minimum amount necessary to ensure reasonably the appearance of the person and the safety of the community; and (3) the magistrate must make findings as to the reasoning underlying the specific amount set and the relationship of that amount to ensuring reasonably the appearance of the person and the safety of the community.

Existing law provides that: (1) a district court or Justice Court may, at any time after setting bail and before acquittal or conviction, increase the amount of the defendant's bail for good cause shown; and (2) if the defendant has been released from custody, the defendant must pay the increased bail or return to custody. Section 8 of this bill instead provides that upon notice, the filing of a motion and the opportunity for a response and a hearing, a magistrate may consider a modification of bail, including, without limitation, the addition, modification, suspension or cancellation of any condition or combination of conditions of bail.

Existing law provides for the forfeiture of bail when a defendant fails to appear as required and authorizes the court to extend the date on which forfeiture occurs. (NRS 178.508) Section 11 of this bill provides that: (1) before ordering the issuance of a warrant for the arrest of the defendant, the court must attempt to contact the defendant by telephone, text messaging or other means of communication reasonably calculated to reach the defendant; and (2) such a warrant must not be issued earlier than 48 hours after the defendant failed to appear.

Sections 9, 10 and 12-14 of this bill make conforming changes.

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEVADA, REPRESENTED IN SENATE AND ASSEMBLY, DO ENACT AS FOLLOWS:

Section 1. NRS 171.1845 is hereby amended to read as follows:

171.1845 1. If a person is brought before a magistrate under the provisions of NRS 171.178 or 171.184, and it is discovered that there is a warrant for the person's arrest outstanding in another county of this State, the magistrate may release the person in accordance with the provisions of NRS 178.484 [or 178.4851] if:

- (a) The warrant arises out of a public offense which constitutes a misdemeanor; and
- (b) The person provides a suitable address where the magistrate who issued the warrant in the other county can notify the person of a time and place to appear.
- 2. If a person is released under the provisions of this section, the magistrate who releases the person shall transmit the cash, bond, notes or agreement submitted under the provisions of NRS 178.484 or 178.502, [or 178.4851,] together with the person's address, to the magistrate who issued the warrant. Upon receipt of the cash, bonds, notes or agreement and address, the magistrate who issued the warrant shall notify the person of a time and place to appear.
- 3. Any bail set under the provisions of this section must be in addition to and apart from any bail set for any public offense with which a person is charged in the county in which a magistrate is setting bail. In setting bail under the provisions of this section, a magistrate shall set the bail in an amount which is sufficient to induce a reasonable person to travel to the county in which the warrant for the arrest is outstanding.
- 4. A person who fails to appear in the other county as ordered is guilty of failing to appear and shall be punished as provided in NRS 199.335. A sentence of imprisonment imposed for failing to appear in violation of this section must be imposed consecutively to a sentence of imprisonment for the offense out of which the warrant arises.

- Sec. 2. NRS 173.175 is hereby amended to read as follows:
- 173.175 [When the indictment or information is for a felony and the defendant before the filing thereof has given bail for the defendant's appearance to answer the charge, the court in which the indictment or information is presented, or in which it is pending, may order the defendant to be committed to actual custody unless the defendant gives bail in an increased amount, to be specified in the order.] If a court has made a determination of bail based on a criminal complaint, the State has elected to present the same case before a grand jury and an indictment has been returned, the State may not seek a modification of the original determination of bail unless:
- 1. Before filing a motion to modify the bail in the district court in which the indictment is presented or pending, the State files notice of the intent to file a motion to modify the bail;
- 2. The State files a motion to modify the bail in the district court in which the indictment is presented or pending; and
- 3. The motion to modify the bail is based upon new or different reasons that were unknown at the time that the original determination of bail was made.
  - Sec. 3. NRS 178.484 is hereby amended to read as follows:
- 178.484 1. [Except as otherwise provided in this section, a person arrested for an offense other than murder of the first degree must be admitted to bail.
- 2. A person arrested for a felony who has been released on probation or parole for a different offense must not be admitted to bail unless:
- (a) A court issues an order directing that the person be admitted to bail;
- 33 (b) The State Board of Parole Commissioners directs the detention facility to admit the person to bail; or
- (c) The Division of Parole and Probation of the Department of Public Safety directs the detention facility to admit the person to bail.
  - 3. A person arrested for a felony whose sentence has been suspended pursuant to NRS 4.373 or 5.055 for a different offense or who has been sentenced to a term of residential confinement pursuant to NRS 4.3762 or 5.076 for a different offense must not be admitted to bail unless:
  - (a) A court issues an order directing that the person be admitted to bail; or

- (b) A department of alternative sentencing directs the detention facility to admit the person to bail.
- 4. A person arrested for murder of the first degree may be admitted to bail unless the proof is evident or the presumption great by any competent court or magistrate authorized by law to do so in the exercise of discretion, giving due weight to the evidence and to the nature and circumstances of the offense.
- —5.] Any person eligible for release on bail as provided in Section 7 of Article 1 of the Nevada Constitution must be released pending trial with the least restrictive conditions that the court finds necessary to ensure reasonably the appearance of the person and the safety of the community. A person arrested for murder in the first degree may be denied bail by any magistrate authorized by law to do so if the magistrate conducts a pretrial release hearing in accordance with the procedures set forth in this section.
- 2. No financial condition on the pretrial release of a defendant, no arrest warrant and no other involvement with the criminal justice system may be imposed, including, without limitation, the imposition of any fee for any condition that is associated with pretrial release, supervision or detention, other than a secured or unsecured bond imposed in accordance with this section.
- 3. In determining which conditions of release, if any, are appropriate in a given case, the court shall consider possible conditions of release in the following order of priority:
  - (a) Own recognizance release.
  - (b) Release with nonfinancial conditions.
  - (c) Release with an unsecured appearance bond.
- (d) Release with secured financial conditions, provided that such financial conditions are set no higher than necessary to ensure reasonably the appearance of the defendant and the safety of the community.
- 4. At or before the initial appearance, except as otherwise provided in subsection 5, any defendant who is charged with no offense greater than a misdemeanor must be released on his or her own recognizance and the presumption must be that no other conditions should be imposed, except that if deemed necessary, the following conditions may be imposed:
  - (a) The requirement to commit no new crimes;
- (b) The requirement to provide his or her telephone number, mailing address or electronic mail address, the telephone number of another person whom the court may contact to reach the defendant or other means reasonably calculated to ensure that the defendant may be contacted by the court; and

- (c) If any alleged crime involves a specific victim who is a natural person, the requirement that the defendant will stay away from that specific victim.
- 5. The provisions of subsection 4 do not apply in the following cases:
- (a) Battery that constitutes domestic violence pursuant to NRS 33.018;
- (b) Arrest for violating a temporary or extended order for protection against domestic violence issued pursuant to NRS 33.017 to 33.100, inclusive;
- (c) Arrest for violating a restraining order or injunction that is in the nature of a temporary or extended order for protection against domestic violence issued in an action or proceeding brought pursuant to title 11 of NRS;
- (d) Arrest for violating a temporary or extended order for protection against stalking, aggravated stalking, or harassment issued pursuant to NRS 200.591; and

(e) Arrest for violating a temporary or extended order for protection against sexual assault pursuant to NRS 200.378.

→ In such cases, the court shall follow the procedures set forth in subsection 6. The court may release the defendant with conditions other than those conditions described in subsection 4 if there is a reasonable likelihood that, when released, the defendant would be a danger to the victim of an alleged offense or another person connected with the alleged offense.

- 6. A defendant who is charged with a felony other than first degree murder must be released under the least restrictive condition or combination of conditions necessary to ensure reasonably the appearance of the defendant and the safety of the community. The court shall, as soon as possible but in no case more than 48 hours after the initial appearance of the defendant, hold a pretrial release hearing to determine which conditions, if conditions are required, are the least restrictive conditions necessary to ensure reasonably the appearance of the defendant and the safety of the community.
- 7. In all cases in which the State seeks any conditions other than those conditions described in subsection 4, the court shall, as soon as possible but in no case more than 48 hours after the initial appearance of the defendant, hold a pretrial release hearing to determine what additional conditions may be appropriate, in accordance with the following requirements:
- (a) At the pretrial release hearing, the defendant has the right to be represented by an attorney, free of charge.
- (b) Before the pretrial release hearing, the defendant must be given an adequate opportunity, as determined by his or her attorney, to meet privately and consult with his or her attorney. The defendant's attorney must be granted equal and timely access to all arrest, charging and other relevant documents that are accessible to the prosecuting attorney and the court. Any information in the possession of the State which is favorable to the defendant and which is relevant to the question of release, guilt or punishment must be disclosed to the defendant's attorney before the pretrial release hearing.

- (c) At or before the pretrial release hearing, the prosecuting attorney or the defendant's attorney may request an extension of up to 48 hours to prepare for the pretrial release hearing. The court may grant a request for such an extension by the prosecuting attorney if the prosecuting attorney certifies to the court that the evidence needed by the State for the pretrial release hearing is unavailable through no fault of the State. The court may grant a request for an extension beyond 48 hours only upon the motion of the defendant if good cause is shown for such an extension.
- (d) At the pretrial release hearing, the defendant has the right to testify, to present witnesses, to cross-examine witnesses who testify for the State and to present evidence by proffer, through documents or otherwise. The rules concerning admissibility of evidence in a criminal trial do not apply in a pretrial release hearing. If the defendant testifies, the defendant's testimony at the pretrial release hearing is not admissible in any other criminal proceeding in the case in chief of the State, except for a prosecution for perjury or for the purpose of impeachment.
- (e) Before the pretrial release hearing, the prosecuting attorney shall provide all evidence or information favorable to the defendant, including, without limitation, any relevant evidence for the purpose of impeachment of any witness. This requirement must be construed to include any information that would undermine any factual assertion on which the State relies in seeking additional conditions or, for those offenses described in subsection 5, for seeking pretrial detention.
- (f) If the court orders any conditions beyond those conditions described in subsection 4, the court must issue a written statement explaining why the conditions are the least restrictive possible to ensure reasonably the appearance of the defendant and the safety of the community.
- (g) A defendant must not be shackled or otherwise restrained when appearing in court for any hearing relating to pretrial release or, for those crimes described in subsection 5, for pretrial detention, unless the court makes a finding on the record that the defendant poses an imminent danger to another person based upon individualized specific reasons.

- (h) At any time after the pretrial release hearing and before trial, a pretrial release hearing may be reopened upon a showing of good cause, and the State or the defendant may request that the court impose, remove or modify any condition of pretrial release or reconsider an order of pretrial detention. If the State or defendant requests to reopen a pretrial release hearing and the court finds good cause for the request, the pretrial release hearing must be reopened and held within 24 hours. This paragraph must not be construed to affect the right of a defendant to file an interlocutory appeal of any order of pretrial detention.
- (i) A law enforcement agency or other designee of the State that is detaining a defendant may release the defendant before the pretrial release hearing if the person in control of that law enforcement agency or other designee of the State, in his or her discretion, believes that such pretrial detention is unnecessary or harmful to the health or well-being of any person or that release of the defendant is in the public interest.
- (j) At the pretrial release hearing, in all cases in which the defendant is charged with a felony:
  - (1) There are rebuttable presumptions that:
- (I) The defendant will be immediately released without conditions beyond those conditions described in subsection 4;
  - (II) Onerous conditions, including, without limitation, drug testing, inpatient treatment, outpatient treatment, travel restrictions, curfew, home confinement and electronic monitoring, are not necessary conditions of release; and
  - (III) Monetary bail or a secured bond, being the most restrictive of conditions, should be imposed only as a last resort if no other condition or combination of conditions will ensure reasonably the appearance of the defendant and the safety of the community.
  - (2) The State may rebut the presumptions set forth in subparagraph (1) by proving to the court, by clear and convincing evidence, that the defendant has a high risk of failing to appear if no conditions of release are imposed. If the court finds that the State has rebutted such presumptions by proving, by clear and convincing evidence, that the defendant has a high risk of failing to appear if no conditions of release are imposed, the court may impose additional conditions of pretrial release if:
- 42 (I) The court holds a pretrial release hearing as set forth 43 in this subsection; and
  - (II) The court issues a written statement explaining why the conditions are the least restrictive possible to ensure reasonably the appearance of the defendant and the safety of the community.

- (3) If the court imposes additional conditions of pretrial release pursuant to subparagraph (2), such conditions may include the requirement to:
- (I) Abide by reasonable specified restrictions on personal associations, place of abode or travel;
- (II) Refrain from possessing a firearm, destructive device or other dangerous weapon;
- (III) If currently enrolled in an educational program, make efforts to maintain enrollment;
- (IV) Maintain employment if currently employed or, if currently seeking employment and able to work, continue seeking employment;
- (V) Refrain from use of an illegal drug or other controlled substance without a valid prescription;
- (VI) Undergo available medical, psychological or psychiatric treatment at no cost to the defendant, including treatment for drug or alcohol dependency, if the defendant acknowledges having adequate transportation and resources to travel to the treatment facility;
- (VII) Submit to a drug test at the request of a person designated by the court;

(VIII) Be released on electronic monitoring;

- (IX) Satisfy any other condition that is reasonably necessary to ensure the appearance of the defendant and the safety of the community; or
- (X) Deposit monetary bail or a secured bond with the court that is set in accordance with this section.
- (4) No monetary bail or secured or unsecured bond for the pretrial release of the defendant may be imposed unless the court:
- (I) Determines that such a condition is necessary to ensure reasonably the appearance of the defendant and the safety of the community;
- (II) Conducts an inquiry into the financial resources of the defendant and his or her ability to pay for such a condition; and
- (III) Makes specific written findings that the defendant has the present ability to pay for such a condition without incurring substantial hardship, the amount of the monetary bail or bond is the minimum amount necessary to ensure reasonably the appearance of the defendant and the safety of the community and less restrictive alternatives are not adequate to ensure reasonably the appearance of the defendant and the safety of the community.

- (k) If a court imposes monetary or nonmonetary conditions of release and the defendant remains in custody 24 hours after the issuance of the order setting those conditions of release because of the inability of the defendant to meet those conditions, the defendant, on his or her motion or on the court's own motion to review the conditions of release, is entitled to a hearing on that motion to be held not more than 3 days after the date of the filing of the motion.
- 8. A person arrested for a felony who has been released on probation or parole for a different offense must be given a pretrial release hearing in accordance with the procedures set forth in this section.
- 9. A person arrested for a violation of NRS 484C.110, 484C.120, 484C.130, 484C.430, 488,410, 488,420 or 488,425 [who is under the influence of intoxicating liquor must not be admitted to bail or released on the person's own recognizance unless the person has a concentration of alcohol of less than 0.04 in his or her breath.] may be detained for up to 4 hours if the person is under the influence of intoxicating liquor and there is a reasonable likelihood that, if released, the person would be a danger to himself or herself or others because of his or her condition. If a person is detained pursuant to this subsection for the full period of 4 hours, an officer of the law enforcement agency that is detaining the person shall state in writing the basis for the determination that such detention is appropriate for the full period of 4 hours. A test of the person's breath pursuant to this subsection to determine Ithe concentration of alcohol in his or her breath as a condition of admission to bail or release] whether the person is under the influence of intoxicating liquor is not admissible as evidence against the person.

[6-] 10. A person arrested for a violation of NRS 484C.110, 484C.120, 484C.130, 484C.430, 488.410, 488.420 or 488.425 [who] may be detained for up to 4 hours if the person is under the influence of a controlled substance, is under the combined influence of intoxicating liquor and a controlled substance, or inhales, ingests, applies or otherwise uses any chemical, poison or organic solvent, or any compound or combination of any of these, [to a degree which renders the person incapable of safely driving or exercising actual physical control of a vehicle or vessel under power or sail must not be admitted to bail or released on the person's own recognizance sooner than 12 hours after arrest.

7.] and there is a reasonable likelihood that, if released, the person would be a danger to himself or herself or others because of his or her condition. If a person is detained pursuant to this subsection for the full period of 4 hours, an officer of the law enforcement agency that is detaining the person shall state in writing the basis for the determination that such detention is appropriate for the full period of 4 hours.

- 11. A person arrested for a battery that constitutes domestic violence pursuant to NRS 33.018, [must not be admitted to bail sooner than 12 hours after arrest. If the person is admitted to bail more than 12 hours after arrest, without appearing personally before a magistrate or without the amount of bail having been otherwise set by a magistrate or a court, the amount of bail must be:
- (a) Three thousand dollars, if the person has no previous convictions of battery that constitute domestic violence pursuant to NRS 33.018 and there is no reason to believe that the battery for which the person has been arrested resulted in substantial bodily harm or was committed by strangulation;
- (b) Five thousand dollars, if the person has:
- (1) No previous convictions of battery that constitute domestic violence pursuant to NRS 33.018, but there is reason to believe that the battery for which the person has been arrested resulted in substantial bodily harm or was committed by strangulation; or

- (c) Fifteen thousand dollars, if the person has:
- (1) One previous conviction of battery that constitutes domestic violence pursuant to NRS 33.018 and there is reason to believe that the battery for which the person has been arrested resulted in substantial bodily harm or was committed by strangulation; or
- (2) Two or more previous convictions of battery that constitute domestic violence pursuant to NRS 33.018.
- The provisions of this subsection do not affect the authority of a magistrate or a court to set the amount of bail when the person personally appears before the magistrate or the court, or when a magistrate or a court has otherwise been contacted to set the amount of bail. For the purposes of this subsection, a person shall be deemed to have a previous conviction of battery that constitutes domestic violence pursuant to NRS 33.018 if the person has been convicted of such an offense in this State or has been convicted of violating a law of any other jurisdiction that prohibits the same or similar conduct.
- 8. A person arrested for violating a temporary or extended order for protection against domestic violence issued pursuant to

For the purposes of this section, "substantial hardship" means a significant infringement upon the ability of a defendant to pay for the basic necessities of life for himself or herself and his or her dependents, including, without limitation, food, shelter, communication, clothing, transportation, medical care and education. There is a rebuttable presumption that a defendant has a substantial hardship if the defendant submits an affidavit or other proof to the court that he or she meets any of the following qualifications:

have not changed since that finding.

- (g) The court, in its discretion, finds that the defendant exhibits any other exceptional circumstance that would inhibit the ability of the defendant to pay for the basic necessities of life for himself or herself and his or her dependents. Such circumstances may include, without limitation, physical illness, mental illness or disability of the defendant or a family member of the defendant, recent unemployment of the defendant or a family member of the defendant, the status of the defendant or a family member of the defendant as a full-time or part-time student, death or incarceration of a family member of the defendant, loss of transportation, a lengthy commute, loss of housing or age.
- For the purposes of the presumption of substantial hardship described in subsection 15, the State has the burden of rebutting that presumption of substantial hardship. The State may rebut a presumption of substantial hardship by proving that the defendant:
- (a) Is a minor or a parent 65 years of age or older and is the dependent of a family member who:
  - (1) Pays for over half of the costs of living of the defendant;
- (2) Does not meet any of the conditions qualifying for substantial hardship;

Sec. 5. NRS 178.487 is hereby amended to read as follows:

178.487 Every release on bail with or without security is conditioned upon the defendant's good behavior while so released, and upon a showing that the proof is evident or the presumption great that the defendant has committed a felony during the period of release, the defendant's bail may be revoked, after a pretrial release hearing [.] that follows the procedures set forth in NRS 178.484, by the magistrate who allowed it or by any judge of the court in which the original charge is pending. Pending such revocation, the defendant may be held without bail by order of the magistrate before whom the defendant is brought after an arrest upon the second charge [.], but only for not more than 4 hours, at which point a pretrial release hearing must be held. If the pretrial release hearing is not held within 4 hours after the defendant is being held, then the defendant must be released until the pretrial release hearing is held.

Sec. 6. NRS 178.494 is hereby amended to read as follows:

178.494 1. If it appears by affidavit that the testimony of a person is material in any criminal proceeding and if it is shown that it may become impracticable to secure the person's presence by subpoena, the magistrate may [require] impose conditions of bail [for] to ensure the person's appearance as a witness. [, in an amount fixed by the magistrate.] If the person fails to [give bail] comply with any condition of bail required by the magistrate, the magistrate may:

- (a) Commit the person to the custody of a peace officer pending final disposition of the proceeding in which the testimony is needed;
- (b) Order the person's release if the person has been detained for an unreasonable length of time; and

- (c) Modify at any time the [requirement as to] conditions of bail.
- → If the person who is a material witness is also an alleged victim and is refusing to be interviewed or deposed, the State may not seek a warrant for detention of the person unless the State does so pursuant to a court order and in compliance with all applicable constitutional rights conferred upon the person under the Nevada Constitution.
- 2. Every person detained as a material witness must be brought before a judge or magistrate within [72] 24 hours after the beginning of the detention. The judge or magistrate shall make a determination whether:
- (a) The [amount] conditions of bail [required to be given by] imposed upon the material witness should be modified; and
- (b) The detention of the material witness should continue. In determining whether detention should continue, the judge or magistrate shall follow the procedures set forth in NRS 178.484.
- The judge or magistrate shall set a schedule for the periodic review of whether the [amount] conditions of bail [required] imposed upon the material witness should be modified and whether detention should continue.

- 178.498 1. The monetary bail or secured bond must be set at an amount which in the judgment of the magistrate will reasonably ensure the appearance of the defendant and the safety [of other persons and] of the community, having regard to:
  - (a) The nature and circumstances of the offense charged;
  - [2. The financial ability of the defendant to give bail;
  - -3. (b) The character of the defendant; and

- The amount must be based upon the financial resources of the person and must be the minimum amount necessary to ensure reasonably the appearance of the person and the safety of the community. The magistrate shall make findings as to the reasoning underlying the specific amount set and the relationship of that amount to ensuring reasonably the appearance of the person and the safety of the community.
- 2. After assessing the factors set forth in subsection 1, the magistrate shall assess the financial ability of the person to pay monetary bail or a secured bond. A person who is eligible for pretrial release must not be detained solely because the person is financially incapable of paying the amount of any monetary bail or secured bond.

Sec. 8. NRS 178.499 is hereby amended to read as follows:

178.499 [1. At any time after a district or Justice Court has ordered bail to be set at a specific amount, and before acquittal or conviction, the court may upon its own motion or upon motion of the district attorney and after notice to the defendant's attorney of record or, if none, to the defendant, increase the amount of bail for good cause shown.

- This subsection does not require that any bond or undertaking extend to proceedings on appeal.
- 3. If an action or proceeding against a defendant who has been [admitted] required to pay monetary bail is transferred to another trial court, the bond or undertaking must be transferred to the clerk of the court to which the action or proceeding has been transferred.
