A BILL

To award a Congressional Gold Medal, collectively, to the individuals who fought for or with the United States against the armed forces of Imperial Japan in the Pacific theater and the impacted Sashinax people on Attu, whose lives, culture, and community were irrevocably changed from December 8, 1941, to August 15, 1945.

1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representa-
2 tives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

1 SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

2 This Act may be cited as the “Defenders of Bataan,
3 Corregidor, and Attu Congressional Gold Medal Act”.

4 SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

5 Congress finds the following:

6 (1) Hours after the attacks on Pearl Harbor,
7 Hawaii Territory, on December 7, 1941, Imperial 8 Japanese forces launched coordinated attacks
9 throughout Asia, striking Malaya, Thailand, Singa-
10 pore, Shanghai, Hong Kong, the Philippines, and 11 the United States territories of Guam, Midway Is-12 land, Wake Island, and Howland Island.

13 (2) For the next 7 months, undermanned
14 United States forces in the Pacific fought with out-
15 dated weapons, expired ammunition, and without re-
16 enforcement or resupply to their besieged island
17 posts.

18 (3) On the first day of United States participa-
19 tion in World War II, December 8, 1941, the “first 20 to fire” in the Philippines at the Imperial Japanese 21 were the New Mexico National Guardsmen from the 22 200th and 515th Coast Artillery (AA) regiments, the 23 successors to the famed “Rough Riders” of the 24 Spanish-American War, who had only recently ar-
25 rived in the Philippines where they were stationed at

1 Fort Stotsenburg north of Manila with the mission
2 of defending Clark Field.

3 (4) Filipino soldiers and civilians valiantly
4 fought alongside and as part of the United States
5 Armed Forces and were integral to their war efforts.

6 (5) By the end of December 1941, all United 7 States forces on Luzon Island in the Philippines
8 withdrew to the Bataan Peninsula of the island, 9 where, for the next 4 months, with neither air nor 10 sea defenses, an estimated 12,000 United States and 11 at least 63,000 Filipino troops and 20,000 Filipino
12 civilians endured siege conditions.

13 (6) On April 9, 1942, Major General Edward 14 P. King, Jr. surrendered the United States and Fili-
15 pino forces on the Bataan Peninsula. The Imperial 16 Japanese Army forced thousands of troops and civil-
17 ians to assemble at the port of Mariveles at the tip
18 of Bataan and other locations along the peninsula
19 for a 65-mile forced march. This forced trek came 20 to be known as the “Bataan Death March”.

21 (7) During the Bataan Death March, approxi-
22 mately 700 people of the United States and 6,000
23 to 10,000 Filipinos were killed. Survivors were sent 24 to Camp O'Donnell where 26,000 more Filipino pris-
25 oners died.

1 (8) On May 6, 1942, Lieutenant General Jonathan Wainwright surrendered the fortress islands of Corregidor (Fort Mills), Fort Drum, Fort Frank, and Fort Hughes in Manila Bay. The complete surrender of the remaining United States and Filipino forces in the Philippines occurred on June 9, 1942.

7 (9) Included in the surrenders in the Philippines were female nurses of the United States Army and Navy and the Philippine Army and civilian volunteers who became the first large group of United States women in combat and, counted with the Army and Navy nurses surrendered on Guam in December 1941, comprised the first group of United States military women taken captive and imprisoned by an enemy.

16 (10) On June 7, 1942, the Imperial Japanese invaded Attu, homeland of the impacted Saskañ people, who were all subsequently taken prisoner by the Japanese troops on Attu for 3 months and held as imprisoned slaves for 3 years and 3 months in Otaru, Japan. After the war, the impacted Saskañ people were not allowed to return to Attu.

23 (11) On May 11, 1943, 12,500 United States Armed Forces personnel entered Attu, which was occupied by about 2,500 Japanese military personnel.

1 Between this date and May 29, 1943, those brave
2 members of the United States Armed Forces fought
3 to reclaim Attu. This victory cost the United States
4 about 550 of its very finest, who laid down their 5 lives in the service of their nation.

6 (12) Between January 1942 and August 1945,
7 thousands of prisoners of war from the United 8 States who had survived the surrenders throughout 9 the Pacific were shipped in unmarked freighters and 10 vessels.

11 (13) It is time to recognize the defenders of Ba-
12 taan, Corregidor, Attu and other places throughout 13 the Pacific who were ordinary men and women who 14 found uncommon courage in extraordinary cir-
15 cumstances.
