Mr. HELMY introduced the following bill; which was read twice and referred to the Committee on Banking, Housing, and Urban Affairs

A BILL

To amend the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 to require social media companies to disclose the gross revenues from transactions involving individuals who are younger than 21 years of age, and for other purposes.

1       Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representa-

2       tives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

3       SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

4       This Act may be cited as the “Youth Revenue Trans-

5       parency Act”.

6       SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

7       Congress finds the following:

1                         (1) The Securities and Exchange Commission
2                         (referred to in this section as the “Commission”)
3                         has broad authority to require the disclosure of in-
4                         formation if that information is in the interest of, or 5                         is material to, investors.

6                         (2) As of the day before the date of enactment
7                         of this Act, the Commission does not require social 8                         media companies to disclose information related to 9                         the gross revenues generated from transactions in-
10                         volving individuals who are younger than 21 years of 11                         age (referred to in this section as “young individ-
12                         uals”) or related to the amount spent on marketing
13                         targeted toward young individuals.

14                         (3) Requiring the reporting and standardization
15                         of the information described in paragraph (2) is in 16                         the interest of the public, and ultimately investors,
17                         for the following reasons:

18                         (A) Young individuals in the United States
19                         are in crisis, as evidenced by the fact that, dur-
20                         ing the 10-year period preceding the date of en-
21                         actment of this Act, cases of severe depression
22                         among young individuals in the United States
23                         have nearly doubled.

(B) In the 2010s, suicidal behaviors among high school students in the United States increased by more than 40 percent.

(C) The products offered by social media companies have altered the way that young individuals in the United States see themselves and the way their brains develop, and the Surgeon General has issued a historic and alarming report recognizing the detrimental impacts of those products on young individuals.

(D) Frequent users of products offered by social media companies are twice as likely to experience mental health challenges, including the formation of suicidal thoughts.

(E) 95 percent of young individuals in the United States report using products offered by social media almost constantly.

(F) Investors face increasing uncertainty as the impacts of products offered by social media companies on young individuals become clear

(G) Valuations of social media companies have not faced volatility when investors and the public have been made aware of the adverse impacts caused by those companies, but some in-

1           vestors have limitations on investing in compa-
2           nies that harm young individuals and society at 3           large.

4           (H) Disclosing the engagement that a so-
5           cial media company has with young individuals
6           could inform investors so that investors can be
7           more informed stewards of capital for their lim-
8           ited partners.

9 SEC. 3. DISCLOSURE REQUIRED.

10          Section 14 of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934
11 (15 U.S.C. 78n) is amended by adding at the end the fol-
