Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

Section 1 of HB 2307 would require each agency to develop an internal administrative review process for reviewing the agency's response to a public records request. Requesters may petition the agency for such review within 30 days of denial or closure of the request. If an agency finds it improperly withheld records, it must provide them. This administrative review is a new requirement and the Governor's Office would be responsible for creating and facilitating the implementation of this review process.

The work of creating an administrative review process for public records requests, and then facilitating implementation of the process in the event of a petition, can be done within current staff resources, assuming that the number of petitions for review under the new process would be relatively small. However, if the new process resulted in a large volume of petitions for review, additional resources could be required.

II. B - Cash receipts Impact

Cash receipts impact of the legislation on the responding agency with the cash receipts provisions identified by section number and when appropriate, the detail of the revenue sources. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the cash receipts impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into estimates. Distinguished between one time and ongoing functions.

II. C - Expenditures

Agency expenditures necessary to implement this legislation (or savings resulting from this legislation), with the provisions of the legislation that result in the expenditures (or savings) identified by section number. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the expenditure impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into cost estimates. Distinguished between one time and ongoing functions.

Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

Section 1 of the bill requires agencies to put in place an administrative review process so people who request records under the Public Records Act can appeal the result of an agency's decisions or responses to a records request. The review process must allow the requestor to make an appeal within 30 days of receiving a denial or closure of a request. Agencies must provide responsive records if the appeal is upheld after the review process is completed.

The Office of Lieutenant Governor anticipates no fiscal impact from this legislation. Appeals of agency decisions have occurred infrequently so staff time required to conduct a review process can be absorbed.

II. B - Cash receipts Impact

Cash receipts impact of the legislation on the responding agency with the cash receipts provisions identified by section number and when appropriate, the detail of the revenue sources. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the cash receipts impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into estimates. Distinguished between one time and ongoing functions.

II. C - Expenditures

Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

House Bill 2307 amends RCW 42.56.520 and 42.56.550 to limit vexatious claims related to public records requests.

Section 1 of the bill requires agencies to establish an administrative review process so that Public Records Act requesters may appeal the agency's decision on a denial of a request. The review process must allow the requestor to make an appeal within 30 days of receiving a denial or closure of a request. Agencies must provide responsive records if the appeal is upheld after the review process is completed.

Section 2 of the bill adds the requirement that a Public Records Act requester exhaust all administrative remedies (under Section 1) before seeking judicial review.

The Public Disclosure Commission (PDC) anticipates no fiscal impact from this legislation. Appeals of agency decisions have occurred infrequently so staff time required to conduct a review process can be absorbed. Passage of this bill will require updating the agency's Public Records policy.

Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

Section 1 (4): Agencies...shall establish mechanisms for a prompt review of decisions denying inspection, and such review shall be deemed completed at the end of the 10th business day following the denial of inspection. Such review shall constitute final agency action for the purposes of judicial review unless the requester petitions the agency for an administrative review in accordance with subsection (5) of this section, in which case the entity's determination after the administrative review under subsection (5) of this section constitutes final agency action.

Section 1 (5): Agencies...shall establish an administrative review process for requesters to appeal the denial of a request or to make a claim that the response to a request is incomplete. The administrative review process must allow a requester to petition the agency, for a review of the agency's response to a public records request within 30 days of the denial or closure of the request. If, through the administrative review process, the agency finds that the records were improperly withheld, the agency must provide the responsive records in accordance with this title.

Section 2 (4): If the court finds the agency was in substantial compliance with this title and acted reasonably and in good faith, then the court shall consider those factors in determining any award.

Section 2 (5): If the court finds that the party requested to inspect or copy a public record or participated in the civil action for an improper purpose, the court may consider that when deciding if they will award any costs or attorney fees to the party.

II. B - Cash receipts Impact

Cash receipts impact of the legislation on the responding agency with the cash receipts provisions identified by section number and when appropriate, the detail of the revenue sources. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the cash receipts impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into estimates. Distinguished between one time and ongoing functions.

II. C - Expenditures

Agency expenditures necessary to implement this legislation (or savings resulting from this legislation), with the provisions of the legislation that result in the expenditures (or savings) identified by section number. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the expenditure impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into cost estimates. Distinguished between one time and ongoing functions.

No fiscal impact to the Office of the Secretary of State (OSOS).

The proposed bill calls for the establishment of an agency administrative review process in the event that a public records requester petitions the agency to reconsider its decision to deny records or provide partial records. The OSOS would establish this review process using the available resources by involving management to audit the public records program's actions. The current law affords requesters the ability to ask for a review, but this proposed bill clarifies the timeline for agencies to respond and gives OSOS a longer time to provide the response (10 business days).

Currently, the frequency of customers requesting a review of denials or incomplete records is minimal and the OSOS has no reason to believe that future requests will result in a higher or lower number of records withheld in accordance with RCW 42.56. The minimal frequency of requesters petitioning the public records program's actions leads our agency to believe that we can absorb the provisions of this proposed bill.

Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

Section 1 of the bill requires agencies to put in place an administrative review process so people who request records under the Public Records Act can appeal the result of an agency's decisions or responses to a records request. The review process must allow the requestor to make an appeal within 30 days of receiving a denial or closure of a request. Agencies must provide responsive records if the appeal is upheld after the review process is completed.

The Governor's Office of Indian Affairs (GOIA) anticipates no fiscal impact from this legislation. Appeals of agency decisions have occurred infrequently so staff time required to conduct a review process can be absorbed.

Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

Section 1 (5) Directs agencies to establish an administrative review process for requestors to appeal the denial of a public records request or to make a claim that the response to a public records request is incomplete. In addition, it sets requirements for the administrative review process and timeline.

The State Auditor's Office's current public records process includes a review of the response if a dispute is received. The 30-day timeline to allow a requester to petition for a review of the agency's response will not cause a significant change to our current process. This will require a slight update to language on the SAO website as well as a way for requestors to submit an appeal or claim. Fiscal impact of this bill would be negligible.

Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

The Attorney General's Office (AGO) has reviewed this bill and determined it will both increase and decrease AGO divisional workloads but with a net zero impact. This bill provides for an additional internal agency process to review responses to requests for public records. It also requires a requester to exhaust these administrative processes before filing a lawsuit. If a suit is filed and a violation is found, the bill provides the court with certain mitigating factors it can consider in determining an award of costs, fees, and penalties. It also allows the court to consider in awarding costs and fees whether the requester had an improper purpose in making the request. The bill will allow errors in public records responses to be corrected timely and thereby reduce Public Records Act (PRA) litigation. The bill also gives the court additional factors to consider if there is litigation and a violation is found, which may mitigate the award paid by the agency. A reduction in litigation will reduce the legal services costs to an agency for AGO representation. Simultaneously, there will likely be more advice required as agencies establish and implement internal administrative review processes. Agencies may need more ongoing advice to assist them in their internal review to meet the administrative review timeframes and correct any errors to avoid litigation. The AGO would also have to establish an internal administrative review process, but costs for that process would be offset by the reduction in possible litigation and potential penalties from this bill. Therefore, no costs are included in this request.

Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

Section 1 of the bill requires agencies to put in place an administrative review process so people who request records under the Public Disclosure Act can appeal the result of an agency's decisions or responses to a records request. The review process must allow the requestor to make an appeal within 30 days of receiving a denial or closure of a request. Agencies must provide responsive records if the appeal is upheld after the review process is completed.

II. B - Cash receipts Impact

Cash receipts impact of the legislation on the responding agency with the cash receipts provisions identified by section number and when appropriate, the detail of the revenue sources. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the cash receipts impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into estimates. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the expenditure impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into cost estimates. Distinguished between one time and ongoing functions.

The Caseload Forecast Council anticipates no fiscal impact from this legislation. Appeals of agency decisions have occurred infrequently so staff time required to conduct a review process can be absorbed.

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

Section 1 outlines the states obligations when responding to public records requests.

Section 1 Part 4 of the legislation modifies language dealing with the denial of public records requests. The state entities named must create a mechanism for a prompt review of decision denying inspection and increasing the review completion date from the end of the second business day to the 10th business day. Section 1 part 4 is modified to state that unless the requestor petitions the agency, the final review constitutes final agency action.

Section 1 part 5 requires the state entities named to establish and administrative review process for requestors to appeal the denial of a request or make a claim the response was incomplete. The review process must allow the requestor to petition the agency within 30 days of the denial.

Section 2 is modified specifying that if a requestor prevails over a state entity named, that the agency may be required to cover reasonable costs incurred with the legal action. Language is added that allows the courts to include if state entities acted in reasonable and good faith to determine any costs awarded to the requestor.

The agency estimates that there would be costs involved for a staff member, versed in public disclosure laws to review the complaints and coordinate with the Attorney General's office but the workload is indeterminate at this time. The agency estimates that it could be around $70,000 for half an FTE of a commerce specialist 3 salary, benefits, support costs, and agency indirect.

Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

House Bill 2307 amends RCW 42.56.520 and 42.56.550 to limit vexatious claims related to public records requests.

Section 1 of the bill requires agencies to establish an administrative review process so that Public Records Act requesters may appeal the agency's decision on a denial of a request. The review process must allow the requestor to make an appeal within 30 days of receiving a denial or closure of a request. Agencies must provide responsive records if the appeal is upheld after the review process is completed.

Section 2 of the bill adds the requirement that a Public Records Act requester exhaust all administrative remedies (under Section 1) before seeking judicial review.

The Economic and Revenue Forecast Council (ERFC) anticipates no fiscal impact from this legislation. Appeals of agency decisions have occurred infrequently so staff time required to conduct a review process can be absorbed. Passage of this bill will require updating the agency's Public Records policy.

Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

Section 1 of HB 2307 would require each agency, including OFM, to develop an internal administrative review process for reviewing the agency's response to a public records request. Requesters may petition the agency for such review within 30 days of denial or closure of the request. If an agency finds it improperly withheld records, it must provide them. This administrative review is a new requirement and OFM's Public Disclosure team within the Legal and Contracts Services Division would be responsible for creating and facilitating the implementation of this review process.

The work of creating an administrative review process for public records requests, and then facilitating implementation of the process in the event of a petition, can be done within current staff resources, assuming that the number of petitions for review under the new process would be relatively small. However, if the new process resulted in a large volume of petitions for review, additional resources could be required.

Part V: New Rule Making Required

Provisions of the bill that require the agency to adopt new administrative rules or repeal/revise existing rules.

The bill does not expressly require rulemaking, but the Public Records Act requires agencies to adopt rules “consonant with the intent of this chapter to provide full public access to public records.” Based on this requirement, OFM would need to update its current Public Disclosure rules in chapter 82-48 WAC to include the new administrative review process.

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

Section 1 amends RCW 42.56.520 to grant requestors the ability to request administrative review following denial of a request for public records. An agency must establish an administrative review process for these cases. The process “must allow a requestor to petition the agency...for a review of the of the agency’s response within 30 days of the denial or closure of the request.” It is unclear whether the 30-day period relates to the time to submit the request or the time for the agency to resolve the petition. The Lottery assumes it is the time period for requesting review rather than resolution.

Section 2 amends RCW 42.56.550 to require a requestor to exhaust all administrative remedies provided in RCW 42.56.520 prior to seeking judicial review; makes penalties for an agency’s noncompliance with the Public Records Act (PRA) optional rather than mandatory; and allows courts to consider substantial compliance by the agency and/or a requestor’s “improper purpose” for making the request when awarding cost and attorney fees to a successful requestor. “Improper purpose” is defined as making a request with the primary intent to: harass; cause an unreasonable or frivolous increase in costs to the agency; cause delay in government action; pursue a monetary award; cause a violation of the PRA; or any other frivolous purpose.

The Lottery receives approximately 100 PRA requests per year. Approximately 10 are partially denied based on requests for personal information related to players, which is clearly statutorily exempt. No partial denials by the Lottery have been challenged in at least the prior six years.

Lottery rules currently allow either full administrative hearings or brief adjudicative proceedings (BAPs) depending on the case type. PRA requestors falling under this bill would likely be offered a BAP rather than a full hearing because the decision could be made based on the administrative record and written submissions by the parties. The Lottery assumes there will be no significant increase in the number of BAPs conducted each year.

An agency must indicate in rule which administrative case types may be resolved with a BAP. Therefore, minor rule making would be required to include this case type in WAC 315-20-125, the Lottery’s BAP rule. This rule making could be accomplished within existing resources.

Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

Section 1 of the bill requires agencies to put in place an administrative review process so people who request records under the Public Records Act can appeal the result of an agency's decisions or responses to a records request. The review process must allow the requestor to make an appeal within 30 days of receiving a denial or closure of a request. Agencies must provide responsive records if the appeal is upheld after the review process is completed.

The Commission on Hispanic Affairs (CHA) anticipates about eight hours of staff time to establish a new process. This additional workload would be considered part of our day-to-day operational workload which would be absorbed by our current staffing level. CHA also anticipates needing about three hours of Attorney General time to ensure sound policies are established.

II. B - Cash receipts Impact

Cash receipts impact of the legislation on the responding agency with the cash receipts provisions identified by section number and when appropriate, the detail of the revenue sources. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the cash receipts impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into estimates. Distinguished between one time and ongoing functions.

II. C - Expenditures

Agency expenditures necessary to implement this legislation (or savings resulting from this legislation), with the provisions of the legislation that result in the expenditures (or savings) identified by section number. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the expenditure impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into cost estimates. Distinguished between one time and ongoing functions.

To establish sound policies CHA would work with the Office of Attorney General to review and modify their policies. CHA estimates they would need three hours of AG services for that task. The Attorney General bills at a rate of $183.15. The cost would be $183.15 x 3 hours = $549.45.

Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

This bill creates an administrative remedy for public records disputes, amending RCW 42.56.520 and 42.56.550.

RCW 42.56.520 is amended to create an administrative review process for requesters to appeal the denial of a public disclosure request or make a claim that the response to a request is incomplete. This new process will allow the requester to petition the agency for a review of the agency's response to a public records request within 30 days of the denial or closure of the request. If through the administrative review process, the agency finds that records were improperly withheld, then the agency must provide the responsive records.

RCW 42.56.550 is amended to add that parties seeking judicial review must have first exhausted all administrative remedies and that the court may consider whether or not the agency was in substantial compliance and acted reasonably and in good faith.

II. B - Cash receipts Impact

Cash receipts impact of the legislation on the responding agency with the cash receipts provisions identified by section number and when appropriate, the detail of the revenue sources. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the cash receipts impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into estimates. Distinguished between one time and ongoing functions.

II. C - Expenditures

Agency expenditures necessary to implement this legislation (or savings resulting from this legislation), with the provisions of the legislation that result in the expenditures (or savings) identified by section number. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the expenditure impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into cost estimates. Distinguished between one time and ongoing functions.

DRS estimates that these administrative reviews would require 20 hours per month increased workload for a Petitions Examiner. This estimate is based on the average number of public records requests DRS receives per month and the average amount of time that DRS usually spends responding to each request.

Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

This bill requires agencies, among others, establish an administrative review process for public records requesters to appeal a denial of a public records request or to make a claim that the response to a request is incomplete. The administrative review process must allow a requester to petition the agency for a review of the agency's response to a public records request within 30 days of a denial or closure of a request. If, through the administrative review process, the agency finds that the records were improperly withheld, the agency must provide the responsive records in accordance with RCW 42.56.

The State Investment Board does not anticipate additional resources will be necessary to implement this legislation.

II. B - Cash receipts Impact

Cash receipts impact of the legislation on the responding agency with the cash receipts provisions identified by section number and when appropriate, the detail of the revenue sources. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the cash receipts impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into estimates. Request # 2307-2-2

Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

Note: This fiscal note reflects a revision to the expenditure impact, and replaces fiscal note number 2307-1.

CURRENT LAW:

Under current law, an administrative review process does not exist for public records requests.

Currently, judicial review does not account for any of the following when determining awards:

- The agency acting reasonably and in good faith.
- The purpose of the requestor.

PROPOSAL:

This bill establishes an administrative review process for public records requests.

It clarifies that judicial review of public records requests may consider whether an agency acted reasonably and in good faith when determining awards and whether the request was made for an "improper purpose."

The bill defines an "improper purpose" as a request to inspect or copy a public record, or to bring a civil action made primarily to:

- Harass.
- Cause an unreasonable or frivolous increase in the cost of government operations or delay in government action.
- Pursue an award of statutory fees, cost, or other monetary award.
- Cause a violation of the Public Records Act
- Or for any other frivolous purpose.

EFFECTIVE DATE:

The bill takes effect 90 days after the final adjournment of the session.

II. B - Cash receipts Impact

Cash receipts impact of the legislation on the responding agency with the cash receipts provisions identified by section number and when appropriate, the detail of the revenue sources. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the cash receipts impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into estimates. Distinguished between one time and ongoing functions.

REVENUE ESTIMATES

This legislation results in no revenue impact on taxes administered by the Department of Revenue (department).

II. C - Expenditures

Agency expenditures necessary to implement this legislation (or savings resulting from this legislation), with the provisions of the legislation that result in the expenditures (or savings) identified by section number. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the expenditure impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into cost estimates. Distinguished between one time and ongoing functions.

ASSUMPTIONS:

The administrative review will be treated as an Administrative Procedure Act (APA) process and handled through the Administrative Review and Hearings Division (ARHD).

This legislation affects approximately two requesters per fiscal year.

FIRST YEAR COSTS:

Request # 2307-2-2

The department will not incur costs in fiscal year 2024.

SECOND YEAR COSTS:

The department will incur total costs of $43,600 in fiscal year 2025. These costs include:

Labor Costs – Time and effort equate to 0.33 FTE.

- Amend one administrative rule.
- Process appeals.
- Division training.

ONGOING COSTS:

There are no ongoing costs.

Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

House Bill 2307 amends RCW 42.56.520 and 42.56.550 to limit vexatious claims related to public records requests.

Section 1 of the bill requires agencies to establish an administrative review process so that Public Records Act requesters may appeal the agency's decision on a denial of a request. The review process must allow the requestor to make an appeal within 30 days of receiving a denial or closure of a request. Agencies must provide responsive records if the appeal is upheld after the review process is completed.

Section 2 of the bill adds the requirement that a Public Records Act requester exhaust all administrative remedies (under Section 1) before seeking judicial review.

The Board of Tax Appeals (BTA) anticipates no fiscal impact from this legislation. Appeals of agency decisions have occurred infrequently so staff time required to conduct a review process can be absorbed. Passage of this bill will require updating the agency's Public Records policy.

II. B - Cash receipts Impact

Cash receipts impact of the legislation on the responding agency with the cash receipts provisions identified by section number and when appropriate, the detail of the revenue sources. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the cash receipts impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into estimates. Distinguished between one time and ongoing functions.

II. C - Expenditures

Agency expenditures necessary to implement this legislation (or savings resulting from this legislation), with the provisions of the legislation that result in the expenditures (or savings) identified by section number. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the expenditure impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into cost estimates. Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

Section 1 of the bill requires agencies to put in place an administrative review process so people who request records under the Public Records Act can appeal the result of an agency's decisions or responses to a records request. The review process must allow the requestor to make an appeal within 30 days of receiving a denial or closure of a request. Agencies must provide responsive records if the appeal is upheld after the review process is completed.

The Office of Minority and Women's Business Enterprises anticipates no fiscal impact from this legislation. Appeals of agency decisions have occurred infrequently so staff time required to conduct a review process can be absorbed.

II. B - Cash receipts Impact

Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

No Fiscal Impact: Because the Commission is a non-appropriated, non-allocated agency, all the costs associated with the contemplated legislation connected to the Commission will flow through the Commission's operating funds, therefore the Commission believes it has no fiscal impact on the state's budget.

II. B - Cash receipts Impact

Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

Section 1(4) changes the date that the review of decisions denying inspection is deemed completed from the end of the 2nd business day to the end of the 10th business day following the denial of the inspection.

Section 1(5) requires agencies to establish an administrative review process for requesters to appeal the denial of a request or make a claim that the response to a request is incomplete.

II. B - Cash receipts Impact

Distinguished between one time and ongoing functions.

Section 1(4) changes the date that the review of decisions denying inspection is deemed completed from the end of the 2nd business day to the end of the 10th business day following the denial of the inspection.

Section 1(5) requires agencies to establish an administrative review process for requesters to appeal the denial of a request or make a claim that the response to a request is incomplete. The Office of Insurance Commissioner (OIC) currently has a process for internal administrative review laid out in WAC 284-03-040. Over the last eight years, no one has ever petitioned for review under this WAC and only two requesters have directly initiated a civil action in court under the Public Request Act; both cases were quickly dismissed. The OIC will be required to review and modify its current administrative review process, but the associated costs are considered minor and can be absorbed through the normal course of OIC business.

Sections 1 will require 'simple' rulemaking, in FY2025, to revise WAC 284-03-040 to include appeals for incomplete responses and to align with the timeline change for when the review of decisions denying inspection is deemed completed.

Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

The bill requires agencies, the Office of the Secretary of the Senate, and the Office of the Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives to establish an administrative review process for requesters to appeal the denial of a request or to make a claim that the response to a request is incomplete. It also specifies what the court shall consider when determining awards or may consider when deciding if they will award any costs or attorney fees.

Sec. 1. Provides that a review of decisions denying inspection shall be deemed completed at the end of the 10th business day, rather than the second business day, following the denial of inspection. Provides an exemption for when a review of denial of inspection constitutes final action. Requires agencies, the Office of the Secretary of the Senate, and the Office of the Chief Cler of the House of Representatives to establish and administrative review process for requesters to appeal the denial of a request or to make a claim that the response to a request is incomplete.

Sec. 2. Specifies a party seeking judicial review must have exhausted all administrative remedies provided under RCW 42.56.520. Provides any person who prevails against an agency in any action in the courts seeking the right to inspect or copy any public record or the right to receive a response to a public record request within a reasonable amount of time “may” rather than “shall” be awarded all reasonable costs, including reasonable attorney fees, incurred in connection with such legal action. Authorizes the court, in determining any award, to consider if it finds the agency was in substantial compliance with this title and acted reasonably and in good faith. Authorizes the court, when deciding if they will award any costs or attorney fees to the party, to consider if it finds that the party requested to inspect or copy a public record or participated in the civil action for an improper purpose.

II. B - Cash receipts Impact

Cash receipts impact of the legislation on the responding agency with the cash receipts provisions identified by section number and when appropriate, the detail of the revenue sources. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the cash receipts impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into estimates. Distinguished between one time and ongoing functions.

None.

II. C - Expenditures

Agency expenditures necessary to implement this legislation (or savings resulting from this legislation), with the provisions of the legislation that result in the expenditures (or savings) identified by section number. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the expenditure impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into cost estimates. Distinguished between one time and ongoing functions.

The bill has no fiscal impact on Consolidated Technology Services (WaTech). The bill requires agencies to establish an administrative review process to appeal a denial of, or make a claim on, a response for requests. WaTech already has a review process; thus, no additional workload on WaTech to meet the bill requirements.

The review process must allow the requestor to make an appeal within 30 days of receiving a denial or closure of a request. Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

House Bill 2307 amends RCW 42.56.520 and 42.56.550 to limit vexatious claims related to public records requests.

Section 1 of the bill requires agencies to establish an administrative review process so that Public Records Act requesters may appeal the agency's decision on a denial of a request. The review process must allow the requestor to make an appeal within 30 days of receiving a denial or closure of a request. Agencies must provide responsive records if the appeal is upheld after the review process is completed.

Section 2 of the bill adds the requirement that a Public Records Act requester exhaust all administrative remedies (under Section 1) before seeking judicial review.

The Board of Registration for Prof. Engineers & Land Surveyors (BORPELS) anticipates no fiscal impact from this legislation. Appeals of agency decisions have occurred infrequently so staff time required to conduct a review process can be absorbed. Passage of this bill will require updating the agency's Public Records rules.

II. B - Cash receipts Impact

Cash receipts impact of the legislation on the responding agency with the cash receipts provisions identified by section number and when appropriate, the detail of the revenue sources. Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

Section 1 of the bill requires agencies to put in place an administrative review process so people who request records under the Public Records Act can appeal the result of an agency's decisions or responses to a records request. The review process must allow the requestor to make an appeal within 30 days of receiving a denial or closure of a request. Agencies must provide responsive records if the appeal is upheld after the review process is completed.

The Forensic Investigation Council anticipates no fiscal impact from this legislation. Appeals of agency decisions have occurred infrequently.

Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

This bill amends RCW 42.56.520, RCW 42.56.550, 2017 c 303 s 3, and 2017 c 304 s 5 to modify the administrative and judicial review processes for public records requests and responses.

Section 1(4) states that if a public record request is denied by an agency, the requester can petition the agency for an administrative review of the agency's response to the public record request.

Section 1(5) adds that agencies must establish a process for the administrative review mentioned in Section 1-(4). Petitions for an administrative review must be made within 30 days of the denial or closure of the request. If, through the administrative review process, the agency finds that the records were improperly withheld, the agency must provide the responsive records.

Section 2(3) states that a party must have exhausted all administrative remedies provided under RCW 42.56.520 before seeking judicial review of an agency's actions related to public records requests.

Section 2(4) clarifies that for any party who prevails against an agency in a judicial review, the amount that may be awarded to this party shall be reasonable and will take into account whether the agency acted reasonably and in good faith.

Section 2(5) adds that if the court finds that a party's public record request was for an improper use, the court may take that into consideration when deciding if they will award any costs or fees to the party.

Appeals made from public record requesters are rare for the Department of Enterprise Services. Most request issues are resolved in direct conversation with the requester and would not escalate to the point of petitioning for review. Therefore, we assume this bill can be implemented with existing resources.

There is no fiscal impact to the Department of Enterprise Services.

Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

This bill requires agencies, such as the UTC, to establish a process for administrative review of denials of Public Records Act (PRA) requests. It is difficult to forecast the impact of other provisions on the UTC, such as the provisions allowing courts on review to consider additional factors when granting relief. The UTC has not seen any appeals of PRA denials in recent years.

II. B - Cash receipts Impact

Cash receipts impact of the legislation on the responding agency with the cash receipts provisions identified by section number and when appropriate, the detail of the revenue sources. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the cash receipts impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into estimates. None at this time.

II. C - Expenditures

Agency expenditures necessary to implement this legislation (or savings resulting from this legislation), with the provisions of the legislation that result in the expenditures (or savings) identified by section number. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the expenditure impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into cost estimates. Distinguished between one time and ongoing functions.

Simple rulemaking to establish the administrative review process for denials of Public Records Act (PRA) requests.

FY2024: $7,304

(Administrative Law Judge, 0.02 FTE; Public Records Officer, 0.03 FTE)

Review of one hypothetical denial of a PRA request per year.

Based on conversations with our Public Records Officer, the Commission denies PRA requests very rarely. The Commission perhaps denies two such requests a year, and this is generally on the grounds that the requests are not proper PRA requests but are instead requests for the agency to compile information not already available in records. We therefore anticipate that review of PRA denials would be very infrequent, and the denials would likely continue to be of improper requests that do not actually meet the standards of the PRA. Based on recent experience, we do not anticipate that these would entail difficult or complex review of any underlying PRA issues, or close review of redactions or other time-consuming tasks.

FY2025-FY2029: $1,759 per year

(Administrative Law Judge, 0.01 FTE)

The bill also allows courts on review to consider various factors when determining the appropriate relief to award the prevailing party. Because the UTC denies PRA requests so rarely, and it has not seen any lawsuits for PRA denials in recent years, it is difficult to anticipate what impact these provisions might have on the UTC.

Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

In section 1, agencies are required to establish mechanisms for "the most prompt possible review" of decisions denying inspection of requested public records, and the review needs to be completed in two business days. This bill changes that from "the most prompt possible review" to "a prompt review" with a turnaround time of ten business days. Agencies are required to establish an administrative review process for requesters to appeal the denial of a request or to make a claim that the response for public records is incomplete. The requester has 30 days to appeal to the agency's administrative review process.

In Subsection 2(3), before seeking judicial review of denied requests for public records, all administrative remedies must first have been exhausted.

Subsection 2(4) changes the potential awards for requestors who have been denied access to public records and prevailed in the courts in their appeal. An award "may" be made, rather than "shall" and is limited to "reasonable" costs. There is no change to the award of reasonable attorney fees and an amount not to exceed one hundred dollars for each day that he or she was denied the right to inspect or copy said public records. Also, when determining an award, the court is required to consider as factors that an agency was in substantial compliance with the public records title and acted reasonably and in good faith, if the court finds that that is true.

In subsection 2(5), when determining an award, a court may consider if the requesting party made a request for public records or participated in the civil action for an "improper purpose." This is defined in subsection 2(8) as acting primarily "to harass; to cause an unreasonable or frivolous increase in the cost of government operations or delay in government action; in pursuit of an award of statutory fees, costs, or other monetary award; to cause a violation of this chapter; or for any other frivolous purpose."

II. B - Cash receipts Impact

Cash receipts impact of the legislation on the responding agency with the cash receipts provisions identified by section number and when appropriate, the detail of the revenue sources. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the cash receipts impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into estimates. Distinguished between one time and ongoing functions.

There are no cash receipts for the WSP in this bill.

II. C - Expenditures

Agency expenditures necessary to implement this legislation (or savings resulting from this legislation), with the provisions of the legislation that result in the expenditures (or savings) identified by section number. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the expenditure impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into cost estimates. Distinguished between one time and ongoing functions.

There will be an indeterminate one-time fiscal impact for the agency to create the administrative review process, and future ongoing indeterminate costs to administer the review process. We do not know what these costs would be, but do not believe that they will be significant.

There could also be a future indeterminate savings depending on judicial interpretation of the changes in this bill. The courts leeway to consider good faith on the agency's behalf, or "improper purposes" on the requestor's behalf, could result in lower monetary awards that the agency needs to make.

Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

The Washington Traffic Safety Commission (WTSC) has reviewed this bill and determined that it will increase workload and, at least initially, increase requests for assistance to the Attorney General's Office. The bill requires WTSC to create an internal review process for public disclosure requests that have been denied. The WTSC would most likely reach out to the AGO to ensure the process is sufficient. It is unknown who much this would cost. Once the process is developed, the WTSC would be required to deploy the process if a request is denied. The WTSC has received a varying number of public disclosure requests over the last five years from 10-36. We cannot know how many requests might result in denial. All of these steps would increase workload. It is also unknown if the costs of the increased workload would be off set by a reduction in possible litigation. Therefore, no costs are included in this assessment of the bill.

II. B - Cash receipts Impact

Cash receipts impact of the legislation on the responding agency with the cash receipts provisions identified by section number and when appropriate, the detail of the revenue sources. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the cash receipts impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into estimates. Distinguished between one time and ongoing functions.

There is no impact to cash receipts to WTSC in HB 2307.

II. C - Expenditures

Agency expenditures necessary to implement this legislation (or savings resulting from this legislation), with the provisions of the legislation that result in the expenditures (or savings) identified by section number. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the expenditure impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into cost estimates. Distinguished between one time and ongoing functions.

Section 1 (4) requires WTSC to develop a process for reviewing a public disclosure request if WTSC denies the request. Section 1 (5) requires WTSC to develop an administrative review process for requestors to appeal the denial of their request. Work will be required to develop this policy and costs will be incurred for consulting with the AGO. However, these costs are indeterminate.

Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

Section 1: (4) Denials of requests must be accompanied by a written statement of the specific reasons therefor. Agencies, the office of the secretary of the senate, and the office of the chief clerk of the house of representatives shall establish mechanisms for a prompt review of decisions denying inspection, and such review shall be deemed completed at the end of the 10th business day following the denial of inspection. Such review shall constitute final agency action or final action by the office of the secretary of the senate or the office of the chief clerk of the house of representatives for the purposes of judicial review, unless the requester petitions the agency, the office of the secretary of the senate, or the office of the chief clerk of the house of representatives for an administrative review in accordance with subsection (5) of this section, in which case the entity's determination after the administrative review under subsection (5) of this section constitutes final agency action or final action by the office of the secretary of the senate or the office of the chief clerk of the house of representatives for the purposes of judicial review.

- The Office of Independent Investigations (OII) currently has a dedicated position to respond to requests for public records. This position reviews the requests, assists in determining the documents to be provided, works with the assigned Assistant Attorney General to determine which documents meet the statutory definition of non-disclosable documents, and then fulfills the request and/or completes the denial of the request and provides the specific reasons why. This section does not change any aspect of the work currently conducted by OII.

(5) Agencies, the office of the secretary of the senate, and the office of the chief clerk of the house of representatives shall establish an administrative review process for requesters to appeal the denial of a request or to make a claim that the response to a request is incomplete. The administrative review process must allow a requester to petition the agency, the office of the secretary of the senate, or the office of the chief clerk of the house of representatives, whichever is applicable, for a review of the agency's response to a public records request within 30 days of the denial or closure of the request. If, through the administrative review process, the agency finds that the records were improperly withheld, the agency must provide the responsive records in accordance with this title.

- This section will have negligible impact to the current work the Office of Independent Investigations currently conducts. The dedicated position to address requests for public records will be required to create an administrative review process consistent with the office of the secretary of state, and the office of the chief clerk of the house of representatives within the OII process to determine if the public records request was complete. This administrative process would become part of the operating manual for this position within OII.

(4) Any person who prevails against an agency in any action in the courts seeking the right to inspect or copy any public record or the right to receive a response to a public record request within a reasonable amount of time may be awarded all reasonable costs, including reasonable attorney fees, incurred in connection with such legal action. In addition, it shall be within the discretion of the court to award such person an amount not to exceed one hundred dollars for each day that he or she was denied the right to inspect, or copy said public record. If the court finds the agency was in substantial compliance with this title and acted reasonably and in good faith, then the court shall consider those factors in determining any award.

- OII assumes no fiscal impact because OII doesn't intend to violate the public records act by not disclosing all required documents.

II. B - Cash receipts Impact

Cash receipts impact of the legislation on the responding agency with the cash receipts provisions identified by section number and when appropriate, the detail of the revenue sources. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the cash receipts impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into estimates. Distinguished between one time and ongoing functions.

II. C - Expenditures

Agency expenditures necessary to implement this legislation (or savings resulting from this legislation), with the provisions of the legislation that result in the expenditures (or savings) identified by section number. Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

This bill would require agencies to develop a review process for requesters to appeal a denial of records through a public records request. The requester can go to court once they exhaust the appeal process and be awarded costs or attorney's fees.

II. B - Cash receipts Impact

Cash receipts impact of the legislation on the responding agency with the cash receipts provisions identified by section number and when appropriate, the detail of the revenue sources. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the cash receipts impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into estimates. Distinguished between one time and ongoing functions.

Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the expenditure impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into cost estimates. Distinguished between one time and ongoing functions.

The proposed bill does not have fiscal impact for the Department of Labor and Industries (L&I). L&I will develop a review process through existing resources. The number of appeals to the denial of records has been historically low and L&I does not anticipate costs associated with this.

Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

This bill requires agencies to create an administrative review process for persons to appeal the denial of a public records request or to make a claim that the response to a request is incomplete. The bill prohibits judicial review until all administrative remedies have been exhausted. The bill directs the courts to consider several factors when determining any award to a petitioner, including whether the agency acted with substantial compliance and in good faith or whether the request or civil action was for an improper purpose (e.g., to harass, create costs, or “any other frivolous purpose”).

Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

There is no fiscal impact to the Military Department in this bill. All items in the bill related to the Military Department are either currently part of or can be absorbed within the Intergovernmental Affairs & Policy Division regular duties.

This bill amends both RCW 42.56.520 and 42.56.550, the administrative and judicial appeal processes for denied public records requests respectively.

HB 2307 provides more flexibility to agencies responding to requests and establishes an agency-created administrative review process for requestors to appeal denials and/or claim a received response was incomplete. The agency then has 30 days from date of appeal to respond. The requestor can proceed to the judicial appeal process after the administrative process is complete. The court will consider the requestor's reason for the original request in the appeal and can deny frivolous claims.

II. B - Cash receipts Impact

Cash receipts impact of the legislation on the responding agency with the cash receipts provisions identified by section number and when appropriate, the detail of the revenue sources. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the cash receipts impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into estimates. Distinguished between one time and ongoing functions.

II. C - Expenditures

Agency expenditures necessary to implement this legislation (or savings resulting from this legislation), with the provisions of the legislation that result in the expenditures (or savings) identified by section number. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the expenditure impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into cost estimates. Distinguished between one time and ongoing functions.

Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

House Bill 2307 requires state agencies to establish an internal administrative review process for public records requesters to appeal the denial of a public records request or to make a claim that the response to a public records request is incomplete. The administrative review process must allow the requester to petition the agency for review of the agency's response to a public records request within 30 days of the denial or closure of the request. If, through the administrative review process, the agency finds that the records were improperly withheld, the agency must provide the responsive records in accordance with the public records act.

In November 2022, the Public Employment Relations Commission amended its rules to adopt an internal administrative review process for public records requests, effective January 1, 2024. Accordingly, PERC anticipates no additional fiscal costs associated with implementing an internal public records administrative review process as required by HB 2307.

Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

HB 2307 amends RCWs 42.56.520 and 42.56.550 to mitigate the effects of improper/frivolous Public Records Act (PRA) lawsuits.

Section 1(4) extends the timeframe for an agency to respond to PRA denial appeals from 2 days to 10. It also directs the creation of an administrative review process as a means for requestors to petition the agency for further review of a denial for public records by the agency's public records officer. This second review will constitute the final agency action on the appeal (rather than the initial review being the final agency action).

Section 1(5) directs agencies to create an administrative review process for requestors to appeal denials or incomplete requests. The timeframe to request an administrative review is set at 30 days.

Section 2(3) specifies that a party must have completed both reviews (the appeals officer and the administrative reviewers) prior to seeking a judicial review or filing a PRA lawsuit.

Section 2(4) changes language regarding penalties awarded to requestors from "shall be awarded" to "may be awarded all reasonable costs". Adds language that allows the court to consider an agency's good faith efforts when determining any penalties awarded.

Section 2(5) allows the court to consider requests made for "improper purposes" when deciding whether or not to award penalties to the requester.

Section 2(8) defines "improper purpose" as "to harass, to cause an unreasonable or frivolous increase in the cost of government operations or delay in government action"

II. B - Cash receipts Impact

Cash receipts impact of the legislation on the responding agency with the cash receipts provisions identified by section number and when appropriate, the detail of the revenue sources. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the cash receipts impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into estimates. Distinguished between one time and ongoing functions.

None.

II. C - Expenditures

Agency expenditures necessary to implement this legislation (or savings resulting from this legislation), with the provisions of the legislation that result in the expenditures (or savings) identified by section number. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the expenditure impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into cost estimates. Distinguished between one time and ongoing functions.

There is no fiscal impact to the Department of Children, Youth and Families (DCYF). Work outlined in bill is already being completed.

Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

This bill modifies administrative and judicial review processes for public records requests and responses. The bill adds language that denials of requests must be accompanied by a written statement of the specific reasons unless the requester petitions the agency for an administrative review. Agencies are to establish an administrative review process for requesters to appeal the denial of a request or to make a claim that the response to a request is incomplete. The administrative review process must allow a requester to petition the agency for a review of the agency's response to a public records request within 30 days of the denial or closure of the requests. If the agency finds that the records were improperly withheld, the agency must provide the responsive records. A party seeking judicial review must have exhausted all administrative remedies. If a court finds the agency was in substantial compliance and in good faith, then the court shall consider those factors in determining any award. If a party requested to inspect or copy a public record or participated in the civil action for an improper purpose, the court may consider that when deciding if they will award any costs. A request made for improper purposes means the request is made primarily to harass; to cause an unreasonable or frivolous increase in the cost of government operations or delay in government action; in pursuit of an award of statutory fees, costs, or monetary award; to cause a violation of this chapter or for any other frivolous purposes.

This bill does not fiscally impact the Department of Services for the Blind.

Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

This bill would modify the administrative review process when a request for public records has been denied. The review period is extended from two to 10 business days and agencies, the Office of the Secretary of the Senate, and the Office of the Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives shall establish an administrative review process for requesters to appeal the denial of a request or to make a claim that the response to a request is incomplete (Section 1).

This bill would have no fiscal impact as any additional work would be absorbed using existing resources.

II. B - Cash receipts Impact

Cash receipts impact of the legislation on the responding agency with the cash receipts provisions identified by section number and when appropriate, the detail of the revenue sources. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the cash receipts impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into estimates. Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

House Bill 2307 amends RCW 42.56.520 and 42.56.550 to limit vexatious claims related to public records requests.

Section 1 of the bill requires agencies to establish an administrative review process so that Public Records Act requesters may appeal the agency's decision on a denial of a request. The review process must allow the requestor to make an appeal within 30 days of receiving a denial or closure of a request. Agencies must provide responsive records if the appeal is upheld after the review process is completed.

Section 2 of the bill adds the requirement that a Public Records Act requester exhaust all administrative remedies (under Section 1) before seeking judicial review.

The Law Enforcement Officers' and Firefighters' Plan 2 Board (LEOFF) anticipates no fiscal impact from this legislation. Appeals of agency decisions have occurred infrequently so staff time required to conduct a review process can be absorbed. Passage of this bill will require updating agency's Public Records rules.

II. B - Cash receipts Impact

Cash receipts impact of the legislation on the responding agency with the cash receipts provisions identified by section number and when appropriate, the detail of the revenue sources. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the cash receipts impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into estimates. Distinguished between one time and ongoing functions.

II. C - Expenditures

Agency expenditures necessary to implement this legislation (or savings resulting from this legislation), with the provisions of the legislation that result in the expenditures (or savings) identified by section number. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the expenditure impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into cost estimates. Distinguished between one time and ongoing functions.

Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

No fiscal impact.

This bill relates to the inspection of public records, and requires agencies to create an administrative review process when denying access to certain records held by the agency.

Section 1(4) requires agencies to establish a prompt review for decisions denying requests to inspect certain records held by the agency. This review shall be considered complete at the end of the 10th business day following the denial of inspection. This section also creates an opportunity for the requestor to petition the agency's decision.

Section 1(5). This section requires agencies to establish an administrative review process so that requestors may appeal an agency's decision to deny inspection of certain records or make a claim that the response is incomplete. This process must allow for an appeal within 30 days of the denial or closure of the request.

Section 2(3) specifies that a requestor seeking judicial review of an agency's decision must exhaust all administrative remedies first.

Section 2(4) states the court must consider whether an agency acted reasonably and in good faith when determining any civil award to the aggrieved plaintiff.

Section 2(5) states that if the court finds the requestor asked to access public records or file a lawsuit for an improper purpose, the court may consider this when determining any awards or attorney fees to the plaintiff.

Section 2(8) clarifies improper purpose as a request made primarily to harass; cause a frivolous increase in the cost of government operations or delay in government action; to pursue a monetary award; to cause a violation of RCW 42.56.520; or for any other frivolous purpose.

II. B - Cash receipts Impact

Cash receipts impact of the legislation on the responding agency with the cash receipts provisions identified by section number and when appropriate, the detail of the revenue sources. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the cash receipts impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into estimates. Distinguished between one time and ongoing functions.

The Board anticipates no additional resources are needed to establish an administrative review process for denials to access certain records held by the agency. This function can be managed by existing staff. No fiscal impact.

Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

Section 1 of the bill requires agencies to put in place an administrative review process so people who request records under the Public Records Act can appeal the result of an agency's decisions or responses to a records request. The review process must allow the requestor to make an appeal within 30 days of receiving a denial or closure of a request. Agencies must provide responsive records if the appeal is upheld after the review process is completed.

The Department of Archaeology and Historic Preservation anticipates no fiscal impact from this legislation. Appeals of agency decisions have occurred infrequently so staff time required to conduct a review process can be absorbed.

Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

House Bill 2307 modifies provisions of the Public Records Act (RCW 42.56). It provides additional time for agencies to initially review decisions denying access to records (Section 1(4)). It also requires agencies to set up a final administrative review process for appeals of records denials, or incomplete responses, within 30 days (Section 1(5)). Only individuals who participate in the administrative review process may seek judicial review of the agency's decision (Section 2(3)). Finally, if a court finds that the agency was in substantial compliance with the Public Records Act and acted reasonably and in good faith, or the party filing the request acted for an improper purpose, the court may consider those factors when awarding costs and attorney's fees (Section 2(4-5)).

The University of Washington (UW) does not anticipate a fiscal impact from this bill. Any costs associated with developing and administering the appeals process can be absorbed using existing resources. Additionally, any savings to the UW associated with the judicial review provisions will likely be minimal.

II. B - Cash receipts Impact

Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

HB 2307 concerns limiting vexatious claims by modifying administrative and judicial review process for public records requests.

Section 1 (4) of this bill requires that denials of public records requests must include a written statement specifying the reasons for the denial. This section provides mechanisms so that the denial may be reviewed. This review shall constitute the fiscal agency action on a request unless a requestor petitions the agency for an administrative review.

Section 1 (5) states that agencies must establish an administrative review process to review appeals. If the records were to be found improperly withheld, the agency must provide the records.

Section 2 outlines the judicial review process for denied public records requests.

This bill is not expected to fiscally impact Washington State University, and any costs associated to meet the requirements of this bill could be absorbed through existing resources.

Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

HB 2307 modifies administrative and judicial review processes for public records requests and responses. Section 1(5) amends 42.56.520 RCW to require that agencies establish an administrative review process for requesters of public records to appeal the denial of a request or make a claim that the response to a request is incomplete. EWU currently has an established administrative review process for the denial of public records requests (WAC 172-10-090). EWU would need to modify this process, but it would not be a significant change. EWU anticipates no fiscal impact as a result of this bill.

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

Section 1 of the provided text introduces amendments to RCW 42.56.520 and 2017 c 303 s 3, outlining procedures for responding to public record requests. The amendments mandate timely responses within five business days, offering the requested record, a website link, acknowledgment with a time estimate, seeking clarification, or denial with specified reasons. Additional time may be warranted for clarification or information location.

In Section 2, amendments to RCW 42.56.550 and 2017 c 304 s 5 empower individuals denied access to public records to file a motion in the superior court. The burden of proof rests on the agency to justify denial, with the court conducting de novo judicial review, considering time and cost estimates. Prevailing parties may be awarded costs, attorney fees, and potentially up to $100 per day of denial. The court evaluates factors like substantial compliance and good faith. Actions must be filed within a year, and a "request for any 'improper purpose'" includes defined instances.

The university indicates no fiscal impact since we meet these requirements already.

II. B - Cash receipts Impact

Cash receipts impact of the legislation on the responding agency with the cash receipts provisions identified by section number and when appropriate, the detail of the revenue sources. Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

Section 1 of the bill requires agencies to put in place an administrative review process so people who request records under the Public Disclosure Act can appeal the result of an agency's decisions or responses to a records request. The review process must allow the requestor to make an appeal within 30 days of receiving a denial or closure of a request. Agencies must provide responsive records if the appeal is upheld after the review process is completed.

The Arts Commission anticipates no fiscal impact from this legislation. Appeals of agency decisions have occurred infrequently so staff time required to conduct a review process can be absorbed.

Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

House Bill 2307 amends RCW 42.56.520 and 42.56.550 to limit vexatious claims related to public records requests.

Section 1 of the bill requires agencies to establish an administrative review process so that Public Records Act requesters may appeal the agency's decision on a denial of a request. The review process must allow the requestor to make an appeal within 30 days of receiving a denial or closure of a request. Agencies must provide responsive records if the appeal is upheld after the review process is completed.

Section 2 of the bill adds the requirement that a Public Records Act requester exhaust all administrative remedies (under Section 1) before seeking judicial review.

The Eastern Washington State Historical Society (EWSHS) anticipates no fiscal impact from this legislation. Appeals of agency decisions have occurred infrequently so staff time required to conduct a review process can be absorbed. Passage of this bill will require updating EWSHS' Public Records policy.

Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief description of what the measure does that has fiscal impact

There are several sections of the bill that have a potential fiscal impact:

Section 2(3) requires requestors seeking judicial review to first exhaust the new administrative process, which will save WSDOT from some associated legal costs.

Section 2(4) requires courts to consider an agency's "substantial compliance" and good faith efforts when assessing whether an agency will pay a penalty, which should reduce both the frequency of harassing/frivolous requests and the associated costs.

Section 2(5) enables courts to consider whether requestors engaged in their request activities of improper purposes, which should reduce both the frequency of harassing/frivolous requests and the associated costs. It also requires the agency to create and run a new administrative review process, which increases costs.

Individual State Agency Fiscal Note

II. B – Cash Receipts Impact

N/A

II. C - Expenditures

Expenditures:

Section 1(5) requires the department to create and administer an administrative review process allowing requesters to appeal the denial of a request or claim if the response was incomplete. Based on current complaints/concerns, this review process is estimated to happen as frequently as once per week and will require additional staff time to administer. The true labor hours would be spread between a Public Records Officer (WMS-1), a Forms and Records Analyst 3, a Records Custodian(s), and the Director of Business Support Services WMS-4). This is an indeterminate cost since it depends on the unknown number of administrative reviews.

Potential Reduction of Expenditures:

Section 2(3) This section is edited to require any party seeking judicial review of their request must have first exhausted all administrative remedies. Since penalties under the public records act are calculated based on days the information was withheld, the administrative review process would potentially reduce the number of days a record is withheld and therefore reduce associated penalties, settlements, or damages that would have been paid.

Section 2(5) enables courts to consider if the party requested to inspect or copy a public record or participated in the civil action for an improper purpose. The department believes this would reduce the frequency and penalties paid for requests.

Conclusion:

Overall, while this bill will result in additional workload and costs for the Business Support Services division of WSDOT, the department believes those costs will be outweighed by the expenditure reductions to other divisions, resulting in a net reduction of expenditure to WSDOT, which although indeterminate will likely be in excess of $50,000.

Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

HB 2307 would modify the administrative and judicial review process for an agency's response to public records requests. In the event that an agency were to deny a public records request, the requester would have the ability to petition the agency for an administrative review, and would require agencies to establish an administrative review process for requesters to appeal the denial of a public records request or to make a claim that the response to a request is incomplete.

II. B - Cash receipts Impact

Because the number of administrative reviews that will be petitioned and the cost to establish an administrative review process are unknown, the fiscal impact of this legislation is indeterminate.

Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

Section 2(3) requires requestors seeking judicial review to first exhaust the new administrative process.

Section 2(4) requires courts to consider an agency's "substantial compliance" and good faith efforts when assessing whether an agency will pay a penalty, which should reduce both the frequency of harassing/frivolous requests and the associated costs.

Section 2(5) enables courts to consider whether requestors engaged in their request activities of improper purposes, which should reduce both the frequency of frivolous requests and the associated costs. It also requires the agency to create and run a new administrative review process.

II. B - Cash receipts Impact

Cash receipts impact of the legislation on the responding agency with the cash receipts provisions identified by section number and when appropriate, the detail of the revenue sources. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the cash receipts impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into estimates. Distinguished between one time and ongoing functions.

II. C - Expenditures

Agency expenditures necessary to implement this legislation (or savings resulting from this legislation), with the provisions of the legislation that result in the expenditures (or savings) identified by section number. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the expenditure impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into cost estimates. Distinguished between one time and ongoing functions.

Section 1(5) would require the board to create and administer an administrative review process allowing requesters to appeal the denial of a request or claim if the response was incomplete. Based on the low volume of current complaints/concerns, this review process can be completed within existing resources.

Section 2(3) This section is edited to require any party seeking judicial review of their request must have first exhausted all administrative remedies. Since penalties under the public records act are calculated based on days the information was withheld, the administrative review process would potentially reduce the number of days a record is withheld and therefore reduce associated penalties, settlements, or damages that would have been paid. But again, due to the low volume of complaints/concerns, any possible cost reductions would be small.

Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

House Bill 2307 amends RCW 42.56.520 and 42.56.550 to limit vexatious claims related to public records requests.

Section 1 of the bill requires agencies to establish an administrative review process so that Public Records Act requesters may appeal the agency's decision on a denial of a request. The review process must allow the requestor to make an appeal within 30 days of receiving a denial or closure of a request. Agencies must provide responsive records if the appeal is upheld after the review process is completed.

Section 2 of the bill adds the requirement that a Public Records Act requester exhaust all administrative remedies (under Section 1) before seeking judicial review. If, under judicial review, the court finds that the agency complied substantially with its process and in good faith, then the court shall consider these factors in determining an award. This section also defines "improper purpose" to mean that a requester seeking judicial review is doing so for a frivolous purpose.

The Pollution Liability Insurance Agency (PLIA) anticipates no fiscal impact from this legislation. Appeals of agency decisions have occurred infrequently so staff time required to conduct a review process can be absorbed. Passage of this bill will require updating PLIA's Public Records rules.

II. B - Cash receipts Impact

Cash receipts impact of the legislation on the responding agency with the cash receipts provisions identified by section number and when appropriate, the detail of the revenue sources. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the cash receipts impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into estimates. Distinguished between one time and ongoing functions.

II. C - Expenditures

Agency expenditures necessary to implement this legislation (or savings resulting from this legislation), with the provisions of the legislation that result in the expenditures (or savings) identified by section number. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the expenditure impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into cost estimates. Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

This bill amends the Public Records Act (RCW 42.56).

Sec. 1 – Requires review of denials of records inspection to be completed within 10 business days following the denial. Such review is considered final agency action unless the requester appeals the denial or claims that the response is incomplete. Agencies must allow petition/appeal of the agency’s response to a request within 30 days of denial or closure of the request.

No fiscal impacts to the Environmental and Land Use Hearings Office (ELUHO) are anticipated as a result of this bill.

Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

No fiscal impact on the State Conservation Commission (SCC). Responses are completed within existing resources and an administrative review process would be included as part of the agency's response to records request.

The bill guides agencies on decisions denying inspection are completed on the 10th business day. The agencies must have an administrative review process for requests to appeal the denial of a request or a claim that the response is incomplete. The administrative review process must allow a request to petition the agency for a review of the agency's response within 30 days of the denial or closure of the request. If the agency improperly withheld records the agency must provide the responsive records.

A requester must have exhausted all administrative remedies before seeking a judicial review. The bill defines improper purposes for a request.

Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

Section 1 increases the review period from two days to ten days, allows agencies final action after the administrative review, and allows agencies to establish an administrative review process for requesters to appeal the denial of a request or to make a claim that the response to a request is incomplete.

Section 2 allows courts to consider if the agency was in substantial compliance with the law when determining awards. Allows courts to consider if public records were requested for an improper purpose when determining awards.

II. B - Cash receipts Impact

Cash receipts impact of the legislation on the responding agency with the cash receipts provisions identified by section number and when appropriate, the detail of the revenue sources. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the cash receipts impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into estimates. Distinguished between one time and ongoing functions.

II. C - Expenditures

Agency expenditures necessary to implement this legislation (or savings resulting from this legislation), with the provisions of the legislation that result in the expenditures (or savings) identified by section number. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the expenditure impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into cost estimates. Distinguished between one time and ongoing functions.

Section 1 will require rulemaking to make corresponding changes to WAC 220-120-080, review of denials of public records requests. Rulemaking will require $2,500 for a public hearing and $1,500 for rule adoption in fiscal year 2025.

WDFW assumes that the changes in Sections 1 and 2 may increase the number of requests for administrative review. WDFW currently has up to four appeals per fiscal year taking up to 12 hours per appeal. WDFW assumes that any additional work will be absorbed within existing resources.

The Department also assumes there will be a reduction in the number of initial cases brought against WDFW but will increase the number of appeals, potentially increasing costs for the Office of the Attorney General. WDFW assumes those costs will be incorporated into the central service model.

An infrastructure and program support rate of 36.03% is included in object T and is calculated based on WDFW's federally approved indirect rate.

Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

The proposed legislation amends RCW 42.56.520, Prompt Responses Required, to clarify language and change the response time from the 2nd business day to the 10th business day following denial of inspection.

adds to Sec 1 (4) unless the requester petitions the agency, the office of the secretary of the senate, or the office of the chief clerk of the house of representatives for an administrative review in accordance with subsection (5) of this section, in which case the entity's determination after the administrative review under subsection (5) of this section constitutes final agency action or final action by the office of the secretary of the senate or the office of the chief clerk of the house of representatives for the purposes of judicial review.

Adds to Sec 1(5) Agencies, the office of the secretary of the senate, and the office of the chief clerk of the house of representatives shall establish an administrative review process for requesters to appeal the denial of a request or to make a claim that the response to a request is incomplete. The administrative review process must allow a requester to petition the agency, the office of the secretary of the senate, or the office of the chief clerk of the house of representatives, whichever is applicable, for a review of the agency's response to a public records request within 30 days of the denial or closure of the request. If, through the administrative review process, the agency finds that the records were improperly withheld, the agency must provide the responsive records in accordance with this title.

Adds to Sec 2 (3) A party seeking judicial review must have exhausted all administrative remedies provided under RCW 42.56.520.

Adds to Sec 2 (4) If the court finds the agency was in substantial compliance with this title and acted reasonably and in good faith, then the court shall consider those factors in determining any award.

Adds to Sec 2(5) If the court finds that the party requested to inspect or copy a public record or participated in the civil action for an improper purpose, the court may consider that when deciding if they will award any costs or attorney fees to the party.

Adds to Sec 2 (8) For the purposes of this section, a request made for any "improper purpose" means the request to inspect or copy a public record or to bring a civil action pursuant to this section is made primarily: To harass; to cause an unreasonable or frivolous increase in the cost of government operations or delay in government action; in pursuit of an award of statutory fees, costs, or other monetary award; to cause a violation of this chapter; or for any other frivolous purpose.

There is no fiscal impact to the Partnership as the agency currently responds to public record requests and the addition of the administrative review process is not anticipated to be time intensive. In addition, the proposed legislation changes the response time from the 2nd business day to the 10th business day following denial of inspection.

II. B - Cash receipts Impact

Cash receipts impact of the legislation on the responding agency with the cash receipts provisions identified by section number and when appropriate, the detail of the revenue sources. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the cash receipts impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into estimates. Distinguished between one time and ongoing functions.

II. C - Expenditures

Agency expenditures necessary to implement this legislation (or savings resulting from this legislation), with the provisions of the legislation that result in the expenditures (or savings) identified by section number. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the expenditure impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into cost estimates. Distinguished between one time and ongoing functions.

Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

House Bill 2307 is relating to limiting vexatious claims by modifying administrative and judicial review processes for public records requests and responses.

Section 1. (4) would change the amount of time agencies have to review a decision denying a public records request from two business days to ten business days.

Section 1. (5) would allow 30 days for requesters to appeal the denial of a request or to make a claim that the response to a request was incomplete.

Section 2. (3) would require parties seeking judicial review of an agency action to exhaust all administrative remedies under RCW 42.56.520.

Section 2. (4) would make it optional for a court to award reasonable costs instead of a requirement when a person prevails against an agency related to their right to inspect or copy any public record or the right to receive a response to a public records request within a reasonable amount of time; would require courts to consider if the agency was in substantial compliance with the Public Records Act and acted reasonably and in good faith when determining any award.

Section 2. (5) would allow courts to consider if the request to inspect or copy a public record or participate in a civil action was for an improper purpose when deciding if they will award any costs or attorney fees to the party.

Section 2. (8) would add a definition for “improper purpose” to include requests to inspect or copy a public record or to bring a civil action to harass; to cause an unreasonable or frivolous increase in the cost of government operations or delay in government action; in pursuit of an award of statutory fees, costs, or other monetary award; to cause a violation of this chapter; or for any other frivolous purpose.

II. B - Cash receipts Impact

Cash receipts impact of the legislation on the responding agency with the cash receipts provisions identified by section number and when appropriate, the detail of the revenue sources. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the cash receipts impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into estimates. Distinguished between one time and ongoing functions.

No cash receipts impact.

II. C - Expenditures

Agency expenditures necessary to implement this legislation (or savings resulting from this legislation), with the provisions of the legislation that result in the expenditures (or savings) identified by section number. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the expenditure impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into cost estimates. Distinguished between one time and ongoing functions.

The only expenditure would be costs related to conducting rule making to update administrative review provisions in WAC related to denial of public record requests or claims of an incomplete response to be consistent with the bill language.

There would be one time rule making costs for FY 2024 of $2,000 to conduct expedited rulemaking to update the agency’s public records regulation. No additional costs 25-27 or 27-29.

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

The Employment Security Department would need to amend rules on making a request for public records and denial of requests. This bill will have no fiscal impact as the Employment Security Department already has established procedures for challenging public records denials through court, the cost for the rulemaking for the administrative alternative will be absorbed with current processes.

Part V: New Rule Making Required

Provisions of the bill that require the agency to adopt new administrative rules or repeal/revise existing rules.

The bill will require minor rulemaking to amend:

WAC 192-02-060 - Making a request for public records. Would need to be updated to include a reference to the administrative review process for denied requests or requests where the requesters believe records were improperly withheld.

WAC 192-02-130 - Denials of requests. Would need to be updated to define the department's administrative review process for requesters to appeal the denial of a request or to make a claim that the response to a request is incomplete. The rulemaking would define the administrative review process that must allow a requester to petition the agency for a review of the agency's response to a public records request within 30 days of the denial or closure of the request.

The cost of this rulemaking will be absorbed by current resources.

Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

This bill outlines the administrative review process for public records requests. If a court finds a public records request or civil action was done for “improper purposes” they may consider that when awarding any costs or attorney fees.

SECTION 1

Agencies are directed to establish an administrative review process for public records requesters to follow when appealing a denial of a request or a claim that the request is incomplete. The process must allow a requester to petition the agency for a review of the agency’s response to a request within 30 days of the denial or closure of the request.

SECTION 2

A party seeking judicial review must have exhausted all administrative remedies specified in section 1.

If a court finds that the party requested to inspect or copy a public record or participated in the civil action for an “improper purpose”, the court may consider that when deciding if they will award any costs or attorney fees to the party.

"Improper purpose" means a request to inspect or copy a public record or to bring a civil action pursuant to this section is made primarily: To harass; to cause an unreasonable or frivolous increase in the cost of government operations or delay in government action; in pursuit of an award of statutory fees, costs, or other monetary award; to cause a violation of this chapter; or for any other frivolous purpose.

II. B - Cash receipts Impact

Cash receipts impact of the legislation on the responding agency with the cash receipts provisions identified by section number and when appropriate, the detail of the revenue sources. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the cash receipts impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into estimates. Distinguished between one time and ongoing functions.

No cash receipts impact.

II. C - Expenditures

Agency expenditures necessary to implement this legislation (or savings resulting from this legislation), with the provisions of the legislation that result in the expenditures (or savings) identified by section number. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the expenditure impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into cost estimates. Distinguished between one time and ongoing functions.

No expenditure impact.

Agencies are directed to establish an administrative review process for public records requesters to follow when appealing a denial of a request or a claim that the request is incomplete.

Colleges, and the State Board for Community and Technical Colleges (State Board), have rules related to public records requests and the denial of public records requests. Revisions, if any, that are needed to update the rules, can be accomplished within existing resources.

Part V: New Rule Making Required

Provisions of the bill that require the agency to adopt new administrative rules or repeal/revise existing rules.

The State Board and individual colleges have rules related to public records requests and the denial of public records requests. Some revisions may be needed to update existing rules.

Under current law, agency reviews of decisions denying inspection of public record are deemed completed at the end of the 2nd business day following the denial of inspection. This bill would change the time period to ten days. This would require a minor change to update State Board and college rules.
