3 (intro.), 102.29 (6m) (b) 2., 102.29 (7), 102.29 (8), 102.29 (8m), 102.29 (8r),
4 102.29 (10), 102.29 (11) and 102.29 (12) of the statutes; relating to: actions
5 against certain third parties by injured employees under the worker’s
6 compensation law.

Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

This bill eliminates the right of action in tort by an injured employee against certain third parties by reason of the injury if the injured employee has the right to make a claim for compensation against his or her employer under the worker’s compensation law.

Under current law, worker’s compensation is the exclusive remedy for an employee who is injured while performing services growing out of and incidental to his or her employment, except that, subject to certain exceptions, an injured employee may claim worker’s compensation from his or her employer and bring an action in tort against a third party for damages by reason of the injury. Current law also provides that certain specified types of employee are prohibited from making claims against certain third parties, such as a “temporary help agency” or “employee leasing company,” if the injured employee makes a claim for compensation under the worker’s compensation law.

ASSEMBLY BILL 884

The bill prohibits an injured employee from maintaining an action in tort against certain third parties, specified under current law, regardless of whether the employee makes a claim for compensation under the worker's compensation law against his or her employer. For example, an injured employee of a temporary help agency engaged in work for the employer to which the employee is placed or leased may not maintain a tort action against the employer to which the employee is placed or leased if the employee has the right to make a claim for compensation under the worker's compensation law.

For further information see the state and local fiscal estimate, which will be printed as an appendix to this bill.

The people of the state of Wisconsin, represented in senate and assembly, do enact as follows:
